DR. MAGRATH SAID TO HAVE GIVEN BRAIN OF SACCO TO HARVARD

The brains and hearts of Nicola Sacco, Bartolomeo Vanzetti and Celestino Madeiros were removed by Medical Examiner George Burgess Magrath after electrocution of the trio, and sent to Harvard Medical School.

This was learned today from an authoritative source.

Dr. Magrath removed the brains and hearts during a long autopsy performed on the three bodies at the North Grove street morgue, it was stated.

The Medical Examiner, when told that it was "understood" the organs were removed from the bodies, refused either to affirm or deny the statement.

A reporter told the Medical Examiner he wished to have him either affirm or deny the understanding.

"I do not care to talk about a matter of that kind and I never did discuss such a matter," said Magrath. "I will not now."

"Well, doctor, I don't know the law on the matter," said the reporter. "Of course you do. Would you say whether or not you have the right to the tissue parts from the bodies and retain them when the bodies were turned over to claimants?"

"That is a matter I will not discuss," answered Magrath.

PRES. HEFFERNAN, CITY COUNCIL HEAD, IS DEAD

John J. Hefferman, president of the Boston City Council, died at 2:30 p. m. today in St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Brighton.

He was taken to the hospital last Saturday from Falmouth and operated on for appendicitis that afternoon. At first he seemed to be recovering, but a second operation became necessary and he failed to rally.

Councillor Hefferman, who represented Ward 22, Brighton, was thirty-four years old. He was married three years ago and leaves his wife who was formerly Miss Christine O'Neill of Brookline, and an eight months' old baby girl, Anne Claire.

His parents Mr. and Mrs. Myles Hefferman, six brothers and two sisters also survive him.

Although president of the City Council, Hefferman was serving his

JONES 3 UP, OUIMET 1 UP, AT END OF 9 HOLES

Minneapolis, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Bobby Jones gained a comfortable lead of 3 up on the first nine holes over Jimmy Johnston in the 36-hole third round of the national amateur championship at Minikahda, shooting par 36 for the first quarter.

At this point Roland MacKenzie of Washington was 2 up on Harry Legg of the local club, Chick Evans was 1 up on Eddie Held of St. Louis and Francis Ouimet was 1 up on Phillips Finlay of New York.

Jones tied the best score at the 401 nine, despite misadventure at the first hole, where his drive, the worst of the eight initial valleys, was pulled to the gallery, hitting a doctor on the temple and knocking him out for a time.

All the other leaders were even fours to the first turn while Legg and Held took 38, Johnston, 7, and

BRAZIL FLIER AND WIFE

MR. AND MRS. PAUL R. REDFERN
The Brunswick, Ga., aviator who hopped from Glynn Isle on his 4,000-mile non-stop flight to Brazil.

GEORGIA TO BRAZIL HOP BY REDFERN

The Atlantic coast atmosphere at various levels churned furiously today in the whirling of trans-oceanic flight propellers as two planes droned away from New York and a third pointed south for Brazil.

A fourth plane, William Randolph Hearst's "Old Glory," was scheduled to take off also just before twilight on a non-stop hop to Rome.

With William Brock, air mail pilot, at the controls, and Edward F. Schlee, wealthy oil man of Detroit as passenger, the Pride of Detroit flew from Curtiss Field, N. Y., to Old Orchard, Me., on a journey to Newfoundland, from where they will head over the Atlantic in an attempt to girdle the world in 15 days.

At 12:45 p. m., just one hour and 39 minutes after the Detroit hopoff, the Sir John Carlin plane with Capt. Terence Tully and Lieut. William De Metcalf, left Curtiss Field for London, Ontario, from where they will attempt a non-stop flight to London, England.

It was one minute after the Carlin plane's departure in New York, 12:46 (Eastern Standard time), when Paul R. Redfern, youthful Georgia aviator, took off at Brunswick, Ga.,

129 ARE KILLED WHEN JAP WARSHIPS CLASH

London, Aug. 25 (A. P.).—Two collisions involving four Japanese warships carrying on war maneuvers in complete darkness last night probably cost 129 lives, says a Reuters despatch from Tokyo.

One destroyer the Warabi, after being struck by the cruiser Jintsu, sank in 15 minutes with the loss of 99 men and petty officers and 12 officers, only 22 of the ship's crew being saved.

About the same time the cruiser Naka collided with the destroyer Ashi, resulting in the loss of 17 other men.

The Ashi, smashed in her afterpart, did not sink, but was towed into port by the cruiser Abukuma.

The vessels were returning to their base at Maizuru, after practising night defences against destroyers and were proceeding through inky blackness, a moonless night, when the destroyer flotilla launched its offensive.

The Warabi and Ashi apparently were attempting to cut across the bows of the cruisers which were ploughing along at full speed. The Naka was not badly damaged, but the Jintsu had to be towed into port by the cruiser Kongo.

2,000 OUT IN GARMENT WORKERS' HUB STRIKE

More than 2,000 members of the Waterproof Rain Coat Makers Union of Boston went out on a strike today as a result of their demands for a wage increase and a renewal of former agreements, including a 44-hour week of five days, being refused. About 80 shops in Boston and vicinity are affected.

Some of the strikers reported at the shops at 8 o'clock, going from there to the union headquarters at No. 21 Essex street. Here a mass meeting was scheduled and at which David Gingold of New York, vice-president of the International Ladies' Garment Union, presided. He with Meyer Polnsky, president of the Raincoat Makers Union of New York, are directing the strike.

The union is asking a wage increase ranging from 20 to 25 per cent, the minimum wage now being $44 a week for men workers and $35 for women.

The demands were made some time ago and when a last minute conference failed to produce results, the strike call was sent out to go into effect this morning.

FIRE SWEEPS BARNS AT RUTLAND PRISON CAMP

Rutland, Aug. 25.—The Rutland prison camp and hospital, containing 154 prisoners, was threatened with destruction today when fire of undetermined origin broke out in one of the big barns.

Four barns and two sheds were consumed, the damage being estimated by Superintendent William Turner as more than $40,000, with no insurance.

The dormitory, where 109 prisoners sleep, and the hospital, containing forty-five prisoners, were saved, although some of the more dangerously ill of the patients were removed during the height of the conflagration.

According to Superintendent Turner, he had been supervising the lodging of hay into one of the big barns and went to his office for a few minutes. On his return he found the barn ablaze, with prisoners fighting frantically to extinguish the flames. The cause has not been de-plane in his big monoplane Port of Brunswick. His destination is Rio de Janeiro or Pernambuco.

Pride of Detroit and Carlin Planes Take Off

Curtiss Field, N. Y., Aug. 25.—Another transoceanic flying derby, this time across the Atlantic, today appeared on the aviation horizon.

The Pride of Detroit, piloted by William S. Brock, hopped off from here at 11:06 a. m. and landed at Old Orchard, Me., at 1:05, from whence it will take off for Newfoundland to await favorable weather for a flight to England. Brock, accompanied by Edward F. Schlee of Detroit, hopes to girdle the earth in 15 days.

At 12:48 p. m. the Sir John Carlin plane, carrying Captain Terrence Tully and Lieutenant William De Meicalf, both of the Royal Air Force, hopped off from here for London, Ontario, from where they will attempt a flight to England.

Mrs. Lenh Schlee and Mrs. Beulah Brock, wives of the Detroit fliers, bade their husbands an affectionate farewell. The two women then left for Detroit, where they said they would confidently await the fliers' return.

Schlee and Brock said they hoped to get back to Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, in 15 days.

Lloyd Bertaud and J. D. Hill, pilots of Old Glory, said they expected to get their plane on the take-off mound at Roosevelt Field early this afternoon.

"If we get a west wind of 15 miles or better we'll take off this evening," said Hill. "Once Old Glory leaves the ground half the battle is over."

Old Glory is scheduled to carry a load of 12,500 pounds, the heaviest cargo with which any single-motored plane ever hopped off, according to experts.

"The first two hours in the air will be the hardest of all the trip," said Hill. "By that time we will know if everything is all right."

Hill said that there were but two things that he and Bertaud desired: A west wind at the point of take-off and some west wind on the Atlantic.

Bertaud said they were not worried about storms over the Atlantic, feeling confident that Old Glory could battle her way through the elements.

Bertaud's young wife and his mother, Mrs. Florence Callaghan, of San Francisco, were at the field to bid bon voyage. Mrs. Callaghan has been a widow twice.

Hill is unmarried.

World-Girdling Fliers Arrive at Old Orchard

Old Orchard Beach, Me., Aug. 25 (I.N.S.).—The world-girdling plane, "The Pride of Detroit," finished the first leg of her round-the-world hop at 105 o'clock this afternoon (Eastern standard time) with William S. Brock at her controls and with Edward F. Schlee as passenger, the airplane swooped down in the sun, out of a cloudless sky.

Bounding along a stretch of the silvery beach, "The Pride of Detroit" ended the trip from Curtiss Field, New York.

The plans came unheralded and only about 100 persons were on the beach when she swung in from over the broad Atlantic.

Pilot Brock had followed the New England coast line from New York.

The "Pride of Detroit" was housed at the hangar of Harry Jones on the ocean front.

Flying weather was ideal, there being only a slight offshore breeze and visibility after the many hours of rain was many miles.

The next hop is down the Atlantic seaboard to Newfoundland, the second leg of her fifteen-day around-the-globe aerial voyage.

The "Pride of Detroit" left Curtiss Field at 11:04 a. m. (daylight time) and was about three hours enroute on the journey of about 800 miles.

Old Glory Ready for Hop to Rome Today at 6 P. M.

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Lloyd Bertaud announced this afternoon that barring unforseen occurrences he and James D. Hill would take off for Rome in the Hearst monoplane Old Glory at 6 o'clock, Eastern Daylight Time.

"We're going to take her up for a little spin right now," he said just before 2 o'clock, "and if everything's all right we leave at 6."

Broad Makes World Light-Plane Speed Mark

London, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—What is claimed to be a world's speed record for a light airplane was made by Captain Hubert Broad.

Flying a Tiger Moth plane he did 100 kilometers (about 67 miles), at a speed of 126 miles an hour. The record is subject to confirmation by the International Aeronautic Federation.

Redfern Wings Way on Lone Brazil Hop

Brunswick, Ga., Aug. 25 (I.N.S.).—Paul Redfern, 25-year-old Georgia pilot, hopped off at 12:46 p. m. Eastern standard time, on a lone non-sto pflight to Brasil. The big monoplane Port of Brunswick, groaning under a tremendous load of gas, roared along the beach at Glynn Isle and then skimmed gracefully into the air, putting out to sea at a low altitude. It disappeared into the vast stretches of seas and mountains and jungles that bar the way to South America.

Redfern expects to fly more than 50 hours for a new non-stop distance record above 4,000 miles. He hopes to land either at Rio de Janeiro or Pernumbuco. His objective simply is "Brasil."

REDFERN TAKES TWO WEEKS' FOOD SUPPLY

Brunswick, Ga., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Although the young aviator is confident he "is carrying coals to Newcastle" in taking so much food when he expects to reach a Brazilian city within fifty hours, Paul R. Redfern, who hopped from here today, has stored in his plane enough food to sustain him more than two weeks.

In addition, he has included in his navy equipment a rifle, fish hooks, knife, matches and other articles with which he believes he could keep himself well fed indefinitely should he be compelled to make a forced landing. He also has a small distilling apparatus to provide water.

HAS 20 SANDWICHES.

To sustain Redfern's appetite during the first hours of his flight, Mrs. C. E. Ward, dietitian, has prepared 20 sandwiches, two quarts of coffee, a pound of milk chocolate and half a pound of mixed nuts. The coffee was poured into a thermos bottle, but two gallons of water will be carried in an ordinary oil can. It will not be ice water.

There will be chicken, ham and cheese sandwiches with fresh lettuce and celery. Mrs. Ward said Redfern was very fond of cheese. Showing he has an appetite different from that of most men, the aviator asked last night that lettuce and celery be included in his menu.

RESERVE RATIONS.

After Redfern has exhausted his fresh rations, he can turn to his concentrated food supply. This includes the following:

Twenty-four ounces of malted milk tablets, two dozen beef bouillon cubes, fifteen ounces of raisins, extra supply of milk chocolate, extra supply of mixed nuts, one pound of cheese, two small packages of dates.

Mrs. Ward estimated the concentrated food supply should supply sufficient food for ten days. The total weight of the food is about five pounds. Water and coffee weigh 18¾.

The food will be packed in a water proof bag which has the obtain food, etc.

virtue also of being a rain jacket. By slipping the threads from the bottom of the bag, Redfern can put it on and to some extent escape the chilling rains of the tropics.

GERMAN SACCO RIOTERS SLAY POLICEMAN

A desperate mob of Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizers brutally clubbed and stabbed a policeman to death in Hamburg, Germany, today, and in other European centres radicals continued to riot in "retaliation" for the Boston executions.

Police fought the mobs with revolver shots and sabres, in several instances quelling the disturbances only after many persons, including policemen and innocent bystanders, suffered injuries.

In the Hamburg demonstration the Communists erected barricades, blocking the street car tracks, and met the police with stones and other missiles.

Before reserves could arrive at the scene, a policeman who was not on duty was dragged from a car, roughly handled by the infuriated crowd and then, as he attempted to run, was overtaken and brutally slain.

POLICE FIRE ON MOB.

Reserves, met by a barrage of stones as they arrived, responded with bullets, which felled several persons in the mob. Police and onlookers were also injured.

Twelve Communists were arrested earlier in Hamburg when the authorities easily thwarted an attempt to storm the American Consulate.

In Brussels mounted police with swinging sabres charged a mob of two thousand that marched on the heart of the Belgian capital.

In Berlin nearly 100,000 Communists mobilized in the Lustgarten in front of the former Kaiser's palace to protest against the execution of the two radicals. The Lustgarten is only a short distance from the hotel where Mayor "Jimmie" Walker of New York is stopping.

WITH FIERY SPEECHES.

Fiery addresses were made by scores of speakers who characterized the executed men as martyrs. Bands played the "Internationale" and funeral dirges.

The Berlin police, in force, kept an eye on the demonstrators, but no serious disorders resulted.

In Paris, already the scene of the most serious rioting in Europe when 100,000 marched Monday night stormed the Sebastopol Boulevard, the police nipped another threatening riot when a mob of 500 Communists set out to parade, hoping to increase their numbers.

Wild excitement reigned for a few minutes and numerous pistol shots were fired. Fortunately no one was injured.

A motion for a boycott on American products, introduced at a session of the Mexican Regional Confederation of Labor Convention, was defeated, but the convention voted to take steps to intensify the campaign for consumption of native goods.

CARDINAL MAY ATTEND FR. DINAND'S ELEVATION

Worcester, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Worcester will present the greatest Catholic program in its history in October when Rev. Joseph N. Dinand, S. J., president of Holy Cross College, is invested with the robes of archbishop. The ceremony will take place in Memorial Chapel, on the college campus. It is planned to have Right Rev. Bishop Thomas M. O'Leary of the Springfield diocese preside; the first ever held. The date is to be selected by the bishop-elect.

It is considered likely that Cardinal O'Connell a close friend of Fr. Dinand, who is a native of Boston, will be present.

COOLIDGE MAIL PLANE IN CRASH; TWO INJURED

Scotts Bluff, Neb., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Lieutenant James L. Daniels and Sergeant Robert L. Barlow were seriously injured today when their army plane, used to carry air mail between the Summer White House at Rapid City, S. D., and North Platte, Neb., crashed at Bridgeport, near here.

Incomplete reports said that Lieutenant Daniels, whose home is in Albuquerque, N. M., had both his legs broken and Sergeant Barlow was internally injured.

TARRIES AFTER NIGHT SHOW AT LAKE HOTEL

Yellowstone National Park, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Two young college girls, who are waiting on tables at the lake hotel during their Summer vacation, danced five fox trots with John Coolidge, son of the President, while Mrs. Coolidge looked on.

To the tune of "Tonight You Belong to Me," John sailed off with Miss Fern Smith of Lyons, Kan., and when the college boy orchestra changed to "Who's Baby Are You Now" he trotted out with her sister, Alta.

He picked these two from the host of girls which attended the dance at the hotel pavilion and danced three times with Fern and twice with Alta while his mother graciously postponed her departure, although it was growing late.

The Smith sisters had taken a leading part in an entertainment at the pavilion, which Mrs. Coolidge and John attended and Mrs. Coolidge consented to stay after the show was over so that John might associate with folks of his own age for the first time since he joined his parents this Summer.

Exhilarated by his seven-hour fishing expedition in Yellowstone Lake yesterday on which he remained until after dark, President Coolidge again cast aside his prepared program to return to the lake nearby with rod and reel early today.

"I have had the time of my life," the President remarked as he stepped wearily from his launch after 3 o'clock last night, carrying six good-sized trout in his creel.

COAST SHIPPING IS BUSY AFTER BIG STORM

Plunged suddenly from the stickiest kind of dog-day weather into a cold snap that tinged the Middlesex County lowlands with frost, thousands of New Englanders today awoke shivering and looking for the old woolen blankets. Backed up with a chilly northwest wind, the cool weather, despite Old Sol's warmest smile, is due to remain hereabouts for the next 36 hours.

Along the coast the effects of yesterday's wild storm were still being felt. The steamship Yarmouth, because of the heavy gale, did not arrive from Halifax until nearly dawn, and was about two hours late in making her return trip scheduled for today. The craft is usually due before noon.

She stopped long enough to take on passengers and freight after discharging her cargo. Incidentally other shipping tied up by the storm was scudding to sea before the northwest breeze and the clearest horizon in many weeks. Coast guard stations said the visibility was 25 miles.

Old Jack Frost paid his first late Summer visit to the lowlands of Middlesex County five days later than last year. Ground temperatures in some places went to the freezing point. But there was little damage, for the frost was light.

The mercury dropped to 34 in some parts of Greater Boston, and of course some folks shivered, as did others from the subnormal temperatures that prevailed east of the Rockies.

Forecast for Boston and vicinity: Fair tonight and Friday; not much change in temperature; moderate west to northwest winds.

JERE GAINES, MARKET CHAMP, IS KILLED

Jere Gaines, old-time Boston fistic luminary, once known to thousands of fight fans as "The Market Champion," has taken the final count.

Gaines, who hung up his gloves only a few years ago, was killed today in the North Station yards by a switching engine when it jumped the rails.

Employed as a brakeman by the Boston & Maine, Gaines was riding on the forward platform of the engine when jounced off and run over.

The passing of Jere Gaines will be sorrowfully received by old-timers in the fight game. Bald and wiry, possessed of a lovable disposition, Gaines' chief claim to fame was the fact that he took them as they came, and they never came too big.

Although his fighting weight was 152 to 155 pounds, Gaines never hesitated to meet heavyweights, and he packed a punch which enabled him to more than hold his own.

He did most of his fighting in the days of the old Cyclorama on Tremont street, and got the title of "The Market Champion" from the fact that he drove a market wagon.

Gaines was managed by Johnny McGann, now an official of the Argonne A. A., and among others fought Duke Ferguson, Sandy's brother; Porky Flynn, whom he knocked out, and Bud Beadley. He also clashed with Billy Golden and Smith, the Chelsea fish pedlar.

FLYING CUTTER KILLS WORKER

A cutter, hurled from a speeding molding machine he was operating in a wood-working plant at 32 Charles street, struck Frank E. McDuffy in the stomach and severing an artery, caused his death before medical assistance could arrive.

McDuffy was employed as a carpenter by the A. Hathaway Company. He was 59 years old and lived at 13 Temple street.

HEAT GALE HITS NEWFOUNDLAND

St. John's, N. F., Aug. 25 (A.P.)—A sixty-mile an hour gale, accompanied by intense heat, blew out of a cloudless sky over Newfoundland today, but no serious damage had been reported.

The gale came from the west.

Will Inspect Site

Washington, Aug. 25.—Representative Tinson of Connecticut, majority House leader, announced through his office here that he had accepted an invitation to visit the Imperial Valley and inspect the proposed site for a dam at Boulder Canyon some time after Sept. 3.

LINDY AND HIS MOTHER HOP TO HOME TOWN

Minneapolis, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Traveling in separate airplanes, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and his mother took off at the Wold-Chamberlin air field here shortly before noon today and headed for the homecoming celebration planned for them at Little Falls.

The Flying Colonel climbed as usual into the "Spirit of St. Louis" which took him across the Atlantic, while his mother flew in another plane.

Ten thousand persons were at the field for the take off, which marked the end of a two-day visit to the Twin Cities.

PONIKIN MILL CLOSED AFTER FIFTY YEARS

Lancaster, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Lancaster Manufacturing Company, known as the Ponikin Mills, North Lancaster, permanently suspended operations today. The mill was owned by C. F. Stiles, who died a few months ago in Fitchburg. Cotton yarn has been made at the mill more than fifty years.

Besides the mill building, there is a valuable water privilege on the north branch of the Nashua River and a number of dwellings occupied by employes, who recently numbered less than fifty.

MEXICAN FEDERALS IN PURSUIT OF BANDITS

Mexico City, Aug. 25 (I.N.S.)—Federal troops are pursuing ten outlaws who raided the village of La Garbina, state of Vera Cruz, killing a man, attacking several young women and burning houses, said a telegram from Vera Cruz today. Two outlaws of a band of four, recently captured near this city, have been executed following a courtmartial. The third was killed while trying to escape.

U. S. LEARNS OF SECRET JAPAN-BRITISH PACT

Washington, Aug. 25 (A.P.)—The Washington Post today says that word has reached the State Department officials from trustworthy sources that Great Britain and Japan came to a mutually satisfactory secret understanding regarding future naval supremacy when it finally became apparent the United States would not accept the British program at the recent Geneva conference. The gist of the secret understanding has not been divulged, the newspaper adds, declaring it is doubtful if much definite information of its contents is available to the officials of the American government.

The newspaper story also says the secret understanding is being discussed behind closed doors by officials here with a view to weighing possible consequences.

Apparently the advance discussions between the British and Japanese representatives, the newspaper says, have had references to reviving the Anglo-Japanese alliance of 1911. This alliance was terminated at the Washington Naval Conference of 1921-22 and a four-power pact with Great Britain, Japan, France and the United States as signatory powers relating to insular possessions and dominions in the Pacific was promulgated under the leadership of the American delegation, headed by former Secretary of State Charles E. Hughes.

BOSTON WOMAN FAVORS TRAVEL BY PLANE

Travel by air, whether for business or for the thrill of adventure, presents all the elements of society, comfort and saving of time, says Mrs Margaret A. Whiting, Boston business executive, who recently made the Boston-New York hop from the Boston Airport. Mrs. Whiting tells of her impressions for the benefit of readers of the Boston Evening American.

By MARGARET A. WHITING
Editor, Stone & Webster Journal

From the time when the ancient Greeks invented the winged horse, Pegasus, who is there who has not longed to fly—to shake the clogging earth from his feet—to be a spirit light as air, but in complete possession of one's faculties?

At least all boys have felt that longing, and most women, too. I am not so sure about men. But we are hardly awake yet to the fact that our dreams may become a reality right here in Boston by merely telephoning for a reservation and stepping into an airplane.

It is exciting to read about the sensations of Lindbergh, Byrd and the rest. But the most wonderful exploit of another person can never be quite so exciting to you as is the moment when you realize for the first time that you have left the solid ground and are rising, rising into an upper current of smooth, strong air that seems no part of the earth you have left behind.

CHARM OF NOVELTY.

The Airport at Boston has all the charm of novelty to one who has travelled only on trains or automobiles. The wide, windswept field with its wonderful view of old Boston—the Boston we live so close to and never really see—is exhilarating and puts one in the right mood for adventure.

The airplane, with its comfortable wicker chairs and wide glassed windows is a surprise, too. Evidently our adventure is not going to be attended with any hardship.

The passengers leave the shelter at the port and enter the plane with as matter-of-fact air as though they were stepping aboard the Merchants' Limited. An automobile drives up with the evening mail and we are off, just as the sun is sinking low on the horizon.

The bay, the city, the distant hills unroll beneath us. We cross above the Common and the State House dome that shines in the evening light, and soar over the open country.

NEVER FORGOTTEN.

A flight in the twilight, with night stealing gently up from the earth and the lights twinkling on, one by one, is an experience never to be forgotten. So was the circling over New York City and the blazing lights of Central Park and the Great White Way. The Hudson at night seemed dark and full of mystery, but New Jersey was a cheerful sight, with its thickly clustering lights.

When at last the engines turned slower and the field rose to meet us, we were all sorry. The landing was as smooth and uneventful as the take-off, and it seemed incredible that we had been only three hours in the air.

For comfortable travelling, for novel experience, for saving in time, fatigue, dust and cinders, the trip was a wonderful success. If I could choose my route, this is the way I should elect to travel when business or the opera beckons me to Gotham.

KNEISEL'S 2 CHILDREN CONDUCT MAINE CONCERT

Blue Hill, Me., Aug. 25 (A.P.)—The annual benefit concert at Kneisel Hall, conducted for several years by the late Franz Kneisel, founder of the Kneisel Quartet, for the first time was given under the leadership of his son and daughter, Franz, Jr., and Marianne. The concert last year, after the death of the violinist, was a memorial to him.

Persons prominent in the musical world attending were Walter and Frank Damrosch, Mrs. Ethelbert Nevin, Mrs. Horatio Parker, Mrs. Gustave Schirmer and Carlos Salzedo.

10 KILLED, 100 INJURED IN CHINESE EARTHQUAKE

Tokyo, Japan, Aug. 25 (A.P.)—An earthquake at Tainan, in the Chinese province of Shantung, in which ten persons were killed and more than 100 injured is reported in a message to the Nichi Nichi Shimbun.

About 200 houses are said to have been destroyed.

$750,000 Indiana Fires

Washington, Indiana, Aug. 25 (A.P.)—Two early morning fires here today destroyed the Davies County courthouse and burned the contents of several stores and offices, causing a loss estimated at $750,000.

Sends $25 Check to Governor for Bombed Juror

A check for $25 was today received at the office of Governor Fuller from E. M. Roberts of Long Island City, N. Y., for the fund being raised to rebuild the home of Lewis J. McHardy in Milton, wrecked by a bomb.

Exclusive of this donation, the fund has reached a total of $8,642.37, Jesse B. Baxter, trustee of the fund, said today.

A flood of letters, the majority on the Governor on his stand by congratulatory, poured in on the Sacco-Vanzetti case.

Odd Fellows Name 2

Portland, Me., Aug. 25 (A.P.)—Ellery Bowdoin of Winterport and Will C. Miller of Augusta were elected grand representatives to the Sovereign Grand Lodge, I. O. O. F., at Hot Springs, Ark., Sept. 12-23 at a special meeting of the grand lodge of Maine here today.

Civil War Hero Dies

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 25 (A.P.)—Colonel Albert Howell, Sr., pioneer local resident, a hero of the Battle of Atlanta during the Civil War and once associated in the publication of the Atlanta Constitution, died at his home here. He was 84 years of age.

Gasoline Blast Kills Five

Norwalk, O., Aug. 25 (I. N. S.)—Five persons were dead here today, as the result of an explosion in the home of Homer Hicks, 38, in Greenwich near here. The explosion occurred when Mrs. Hicks is said to have used gasoline in a coal oil stove.

first term in that body. Previously he was the Brighton representative in the State Legislature for two terms. He was a native of that district, lived since his marriage at No. 6 Mapleton street, and was formerly president of the Faneuil Improvement Association.

After being graduated from Brighton High School he took the course at Suffolk Law School and was admitted to the bar in 1918, opening a law office at No. 60 State street.

He was a member of Brighton Council, Knights of Columbus; Bishop Cheverus Assembly, Boston Lodge of Elks A. O. H., Brighton Catholic Institute, Allston Neighborhood Club, Alhambra Caravan of Grenada and the Massachusetts Catholic Order of Foresters.

LAUDED BY MAYOR.

Mayor Nichols today called a special meeting of the City Council for tomorrow noon to take action upon the death of President Heffernan.

In a message to the council with his calling for the meeting, Mayor Nichols said:

"President Heffernan was a most earnest student of the varied problems that related to the welfare of the city of Boston and gave the strongest endorsement to all questions touching the best interests of all our people.

"Upon occasions, when I have been absent from the city, President Heffernan served as acting mayor with fine dignity, excellent expression of the city's interest and with magnetic and personal charm.

"As a mark of further respect, I have this day ordered all flags upon municipal buildings, parks and playgrounds to be lowered to half-mast."

Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock Saturday morning in St. Columbkill's Church.

NAVY CALLS OFF MOST OF SHIPS IN FLIERS' HUNT

San Francisco, Aug. 25 (I.N.S.)—Most of the Navy boats combing the Pacific for the seven lost Hawaiian fliers will rive up the hunt today.

Although the entire resources of the Pacific fleet have been thrown into the eight-day search, no trace has yet been found of Mildred Doran, 22-year-old "Flying Schoolma'am," and her six men comrades, who are lost in three racing planes somewhere in the Pacific.

The aircraft vessels Langley and Aroostook, which have been working out over the great circle course with a convoy of destroyers, will turn back today. Planes catapulted from the deck of the Langley have searched the water for miles in every direction as the mother ship slowly moved toward the mid-Pacific islands. Not a clew, not a trace of the missing planes was found.

The light cruiser Omaha and six destroyers, which were diverted into the hunt Tuesday, will continue the search from their present position, following the ocean drift as far as Hawaii.

In Hawaiian waters, the minesweeper Pelican and two seaplanes search off the island of Kauai. Every mile off Hawaii for 40 miles has been thoroughly combed.

Careful search of the slopes of Mauna Kea, Hawaii's highest mountain, failed to disclose the source of a brightly-burning green flare, sighted by an army officer last Sunday.

Vanzetti Wrote Ford He Was Innocent

Declaration that he was innocent and that he was sure he could prove his innocence in a new trial was contained in a letter claimed by the Sacco-Vanzetti Defence Committee to have been written by Vanzetti to Henry Ford last Sunday, thirty-six hours before Vanzetti died.

A letter made public by the committee today follows:

To Mr. Henry Ford, Detroit, Mich.:

Dear Mr. Ford—Just this morning I incidentally learned that you asked or suggested a commutation of our death sentence to life imprisonment, so as to give a possibility of presenting eventually new discovered evidence.

Words of a man in my situation are valueless, to all except those who know him intimately, or the facts of this case.

I have always claimed my entire innocence and I will die all-back today. Over twenty persons are physically positive of it.

I wish to thank you especially becau your request or suggestion in regard to my case, expresses in a way all that we have wished to have and all we have asked; namely, a new trial. I am sure a new trial would vindicate my innocence; that is the only reason why I would prefer a commutation of my execution.

We have an extraordinary mass of newly discovered evidence of such weight and nature to impose our release, if taken into consideration. But they are on facts rather than on points of law; more pertinent to the presiding judge and to the State courts than to the United States Supreme Court. Unfortunately, this undeniable, undenied, indisputed and irrefutable newly discovered evidence was either ignored or its credibility denied by the judge and later by the advisory commission and by the Governor, or deformed by them; being these wa, s the only possible one and the only grounds (wrong) upon which to deny us a new trial or a pardon.

I beg your pardon for my so many words; for my impossibility to enter into particulars and facts of the case (if it will be most improper to me toward you); and I pray you to believe that in less than two months of time we could extract from the case records such a probative document as to prove and to convince a universal conscience of mankind of our desperately sustained innocence—absolutely true as vain.

If you wish so, consider me as very grateful to you for your request or suggestion in our case—also for my family.

129 DIE IN JAP NAVY CRASHES

the Japanese royal family, Prince Hiroyoshi Fushimi, son of vice-admiral Hiroyasu Fushimi, was aboard the Naka when the collision occurred, but was not injured. He is a lieutenant in the Japanese navy.

The vicinity of the crashes was being scoured today in the hope of picking up some of the missing men although there was little hope of finding any of them.

The disaster is the second suffered by the Japanese navy this month. On August 1 thirty-eight men were kill, and 47 wounded when a mine exploded on the deck of the mine layer Tokiwa. The explosion occurred while the vessel was engaged in maneuvers off Kiushiu Island.

FIRE SWEEPS PRISON BARNS AT RUTLAND

termined. Horses and cows in the barn were saved by the prisoners.

Fed on newly stored hay, the flames roared through the wooden structure, licked up another nearby and swept on to a third and fourth, the last but a short distance from the dormitory.

Help was summoned from Worcester, Holden and Paxton, squads of men from the local veterans' bureau assisted prisoners and firemen in battling the flames, and the private fir department from the State sanatorium also lent a hand.

Nine State troopers from the Holden barracks were rushed to the scene, and Deputy Commissioner of Corrections Edward C. R. Bagley was notified at the State House and left for Rutland at once.

The blaze started in the hay mow of one of the large barns and before help could be summoned the structure was enveloped in flames. Fanned by a brisk wind, the fire spread rapidly to the horse barn a short distance away, but the stock had been taken to a place of safety.

The group of buildings consists of the office building, hospital, dormitory, garage and the three barns.

The fire fighters were handicapped by the fact it was necessary to pump water from a considerable distance up hill as the camp is located on an eminence.

ROXBURY GIRL SERIOUSLY HURT IN 15-FOOT PLUNGE

Alva Linstrom, 5 years old, of No. 23 Fort avenue, Roxbury, while playing on the roof of the Brookside Laundry near her home, fell 15 feet to the ground and was seriously injured. She was removed to the City Hospital and treated for multiple injuries. Her name was placed on the danger list.

San Francisco, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—he action of Martin Jensen in onolulu in paying his navigator, aptain Paul Schluter, only $25 r navigating the monoplane Aloha rom San Francisco Bay to Hono-lu to win $10,000, second prize in he Dole race, was not in accord-nce with instructions given by Mrs. ensen to her husband before the ace. She insisted that the naviga-or be paid nothing.

From the beginning, Mrs. Jensen anted her husband to fly alone. he believed he could make the hop ingle handed and her opinion was ased on her experience when she ompanied him as an aviatrix at ountry fairs.

LAN DISCARDED.

When it became apparent that ensen might be compelled to use f five-gallon cans to carry his re-erve supply of gasoline, he cabled s Mrs. Jensen saying he would be ble to obtain a second man in the lane, who could refill the main el tanks from the small cans and avigate the plane as well. This, rs. Jensen approved, providing no oney was paid to the navigator, he five-gallon plan was discarded ter.

Jensen interviewed a long line of pplicants and found an experienced avigator—a captain in the navy—ho agreed to navigate the plane nd pour the gasoline without com-pensation.

SKED TRANSPORTATION.

The officer asked that he be guar-nteed his transportation back to e mainland, should the monoplane rive in Honolulu. Jensen said he ould guarantee the return fare if he plane came within the prize oney otherwise not.

Mrs. Jensen raised the plane pur-hase money by subscription in onolulu while her husband was n route to California to obtain a lane. She has been the business anager of the venture from the tart.

In a message to Jensen she told im that if he dared to let the loha down at sea she would row ut and "pat you on the head with n oar."

Ruth Taylor, an Unknown, Will Play Lorelei Lee

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS.

Los Angeles, Aug. 25.

RUTH TAYLOR, blonde actress, formerly a Mack Sennett bathing beauty, will be told in a few days hat she is to play Lorelei Lee in Gentlemen Prefer Blondes,' Anita oos' world-famous story.

She played opposite Harry Lang-on in one of his early Sennett com-dies, and while she is not well nown as a screen actress, she is old to have registered in the few ictures in which she appeared.

Probably no search in the movie orld for an actress has ever been ore discussed. Now we all go back to our work and talk of some-ning else.

Eric Von Stroheim has bowed out f "The Wedding March" and has anded his latest screen child over o Josef Von Sternberg to cut and fit. Or, perhaps I had better say, y mutual consent Paramount-Fam-us-Lasky has given the task of cut-ing the two hundred odd reels of lm of the latest Von Stroheim to Von Sternberg.

I wonder why these producers con-nue to permit Mr. Von Stroheim o film thousands of feet of excess otage, spending about ten times s much money as is normally con-dered proper? True, he makes ood pictures, but every time he urns out a picture there is the anguish of mind until his picture is cut—to say nothing of the uncer-tainty of ever making the picture pay as an investment.

I thought it was about time Harry Cohn signed someone. He has been home from New York three days now and nary a contract.

Yesterday the ice was broken and he announced that Pauline Garon would be starred in "The College Hero," a comedy to be directed by Walter Lang. Pauline recently an-nounced her separation from her husband, Lowell Sherman.

There is every reason to believe Richard Barthelmess will bring his bride to Beverly Hills to his new home there.

I was much interested to read a dispatch that Katherine Wilson will give up her career when she marries Mr. Barthelmess. Mary May's in-sistance that she be allowed to con-tinue as a dancer on the stage was one of the chief reasons why Mary and Dick separated. Dick wanted the type of wife that would sit home by the fireside and keep house and Mary wanted the theatre first and home later.

The John Gilbert-Greta Garbo ro-mance is on full speed again. Every time Jack takes a party out on his new boat, the Temptress, Garbo is included among the guests. I am wondering when he gets ready to take a trip to the Mediterranean if it will be a wedding trip.

TRY TO IDENTIFY MAN WITH BROKEN SKULL

Police today are trying to identify the man who fell down stairs at the Sullivan Square terminal of the Boston Elevated Railway, suffering a fractured skull and other injuries. The only clue is a long list of addresses in East Boston.

Dr. Devine at the hospital found, besides fracture of the skull, lacerations of the right eye and nose and contusions and abrasions of both knees.

The description of the man given the police was: White, about 50 years, 180 pounds, dark complexion, blue eyes, smooth face, dark gray suit, white shirt, with soft collar, blue tie, brown low cut shoes and black socks.

COL. CHARLES GLIDDEN IS REPORTED WEAKER

Colonel Charles J. Glidden, retired financier and associate of the late Professor Alexander Graham Bell in the perfecting of the telephone, who has been confined to his bed at No. 40 Fenway, Back Bay, since the first of the month, was reported as conscious but growing weaker.

He was the first person to make a world tour by automobile, and later established the "Glidden Tours." In 1900 he retired as head of the Bell Telephone system in New England. He is 69 years old.

NORTH ADAMS POLICE SEEK MISSING GIRL

North Adams, Aug. 25.—The local police, aided by the authorities of several other nearby towns and cities, are conducting a search for Miss Grace Cook, 16, daughter of Mrs. Mary F. Cook of this city, who has been missing from her home for several days. Members of her family are at a loss to explain her disappearance.

BAKERY MAKES FINE SAFETY RECORD

One hundred and twenty-five salesmen and executives of the White Rose Bakery gathered at Pemberton Inn, to celebrate the completion of a six months' no accident contest, during which time their team and truck accidents were reduced 75 per cent over the same period last year.

Frank T. Coleman, director of safety of the Continental Baking Corporation's 104 plants, came to Boston especially to attend the event, and congratulated the White Rose salesmen on the wonderful record that they made.

A shore dinner was served, at which Carl W. Swanson, plant manager, presided. He complimented the salesmen on the good work that was accomplished in reducing accidents and spoke further of steps that are being taken to follow up this work along similar lines.

J. Robert Clair, safety engineer of the Liberty Mutual Insurance Company, interested the men with moving pictures and told how accidents can be avoided by careful driving.

Other speakers were R. K. Stritzinger, regional manager; George V. Davis, sales manager, and William McKenzie, garage superintendent.

Morgan Office Denies Report

New York, Aug. 25.—The office of J. P. Morgan & Co. yesterday denied to the Associated Press a report from Chicago that Mr. Morgan had ordered tickets or would attend the Dempsey-Tunney fight there, saying he never attended boxing bouts. He is at present abroad and will not return before the fight.

UNION MINERS MARCHING ON COAL MINES

Athens, Mo., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—More than 400 union miners of the Sunday Creek Valley around Glouster began a march on the non-union mines about Middleport this morning.

More than a hundred automobiles were in the caravan which was headed by a drum corps. Oral Daugherty, president of the District Miners' Union, on learning of the proposed demonstration, left hurriedly by automobile in an attempt to turn his men back.

As the caravan proceeded it was joined by other miners in this district.

"Come, join us in the march on Pomeroy," the miners shouted as the procession pressed forward.

President Daugherty, taking a different route to get ahead of the others, believed he would be able to induce the men to return if he could head them off before they reached their goal.

Many of the mines in the Pomeroy district are operating on a non-union basis, and it is understood many miners from the Athens county fields now are working there. It is to induce these men to return that the Hocking Valley miners contemplate their demonstration, it was said.

Liner Delayed

Delayed by fog and storm, the Hamburg-American Line steamer Thuringia was delayed many hours in leaving Commonwealth pier South Boston, for Queenstown and Hamburg. Fog beset the liner following her departure from New York.

CLEW TO SLAYER IN MOTHER'S SAD LETTER

Streator, Ill., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—The anguish of a mother's heart for her wayward son was revealed today in the latest clue to the slayer of Mrs. Elma Hill, well-to-do woman found shot to death and buried in the basement of her home here.

The clue was a letter to the woman's divorced husband, Dr. H. C. Hill, an eye specialist, telling of her sorrow and suffering over the actions of their son, Harry D. Hill, who still was sought today as the fugitive slayer of his mother.

Dr. Hill turned the letter over to authorities as a possible clue to the slayer, even though it added a link to the chain of circumstances which pointed to his son as the slayer. Written on a bit of scrap paper the letter told how the wayward son had continued to draw upon her bank account.

"Last week I told you about the $1,000 gone out," the letter read. "Today I find three checks forged."

"Where did it go? He lies and lies when I talk to him about anything. I am trying to keep a home for him. I offered to go anywhere and start him in business."

She asked her former husband to see if he couldn't do something to aid their son.

TILSON PLANS VISIT TO BOULDER DAM SITE

Washington, Aug. 25.—Representative Tilson of Connecticut, Republican House leader, announced through his office here that he had accepted an invitation to visit the Imperial Valley and inspect the proposed site for a dam at Boulder Canyon some time after September 5.

Cardinal Dies

PRIMATE OF SPAIN

Cardinal Reig y Casanova, who visited the U. S. last year attending the Eucharistic Congress and being received by President Coolidge, is dead at Toledo, Spain.

EARL CARROLL IN OPEN AIR

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Earl Carroll, sentenced to serve a year and a day in the Federal Penitentiary here on a charge of perjury growing out of his celebrated New York "bathtub" party, has been transferred to the prison honor farm.

Officials said the transfer was effective August 1.

The honor farm, two miles from the prison, is the goal for prisoners, because it not only allows them freedom in the open air, but is an award for good behavior, and carries certain privileges that remain at the option of the Parole Board, which meets September 5.

Carroll is not eligible for parole until October 5, but the board may, at its discretion, take action on a case before the expiration of the compulsory term, it was said.

SOLE SURVIVOR OF LOST SHIP SAW SIX PERISH

Stockholm, Sweden, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—The sole survivor of the lost Swedish steamer Tryggve was brought here today by a Finnish vessel and told a story of seeing six companions perish as they drifted in an open boat. The Tryggve left Stockholm for Leningrad. It was wrecked the next day, six members of the crew going down with the ship.

The remaining five of the crew, with two passengers, got away in a small boat. Their sufferings from exposure were so great that some perished in the boat and others became insane and threw themselves overboard. The survivor, a stoker, was picked up.

CHURCH HEAD IN SPAIN DEAD

Toledo, Spain, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Cardinal Reig y Casanova, Archbishop of Toledo and Primate of Spain, died after a lingering illness.

The cardinal attended the eucharistic congress at Chicago last year and was received by President Coolidge.

He was born at Valencia in 1859 and was created a cardinal in December, 1923.

STONE OF KEITH THEATRE LAID BY NOTABLES

While more than 2,000 persons blocked traffic in Washington street today to cheer some of the foremost actors and actresses in the country gathered on a little platform, the cornerstone of the Keith Memorial Theatre was laid and tribute paid to the late B. F. Keith.

Vaudeville, drama, musical comedy and the business office all united in praise of the late theatre magnate and participated in the exercises which marked the laying of the cornerstone. Men and women whose names have twinkled in electrics for a decade addressed their massed admirers. They drew laughs and cheers on their appearance, but all forgot their acts to pay respects to the man in whose memory Boston's newest theatre, a $5,000,000 structure, is dedicated.

Mayor Nichols opened the ceremonies with an address on the work Benjamin Franklin Keith had done for the betterment of the theatre. He introduced Henry Chesterfield of the National Vaudeville Artists, who described Keith's work for the actors and how much love they all bore his memory.

George M. Cohan was the next speaker and the chasm of Washington street resounded with cheers and handclapping which lasted several minutes. After a few of his inimitable comments, Cohan, too, spoke in praise of the man for whom he did his act 40 years ago within a block of the present site of the memorial theatre.

Julia Arthur followed, and Raymond Hitchcock, flashing a little finger laden with gems and speaking in his most exaggerated accents was received with a storm of applause. Fred Stone, Dorothy Stone, Weber & Fields, Jim McIntyre and his diminutive Heath, James Thornton and many others all drew their "hand" but gave the curtain call to their late friend and employer.

As the guests and spectators remained in hushed silence Dorothy Stone was handed a silver trowel and the cornerstone was laid. A minute of silent prayer followed and with bared heads the crowd listened to the strains of "Auld Lang Syne" from the Boston Meistersingers.

Among associates of the late theatre man who spoke highly of his efforts was E. F. Albee, for many years his partner and close friend. Mr. Albee also was praised by the artists in their short talks from the platform. William Canavan, president of the International Alliance of Stage Employes, and Richard J. Green, secretary-treasurer, were among those present.

TWO GANG MEN SLAIN IN ST. LOUIS VENDETTA

St. Louis, Aug. 25 (A. P.).—Police were probing "Little Italy" here today in search of the slayers of Aloys F. Beelman, an attorney, and Benny Giamanco, well-known gangster, who were shot by gunmen in a renewal of gang warfare.

Speeding past the Lyric coffee shop, a gangster rendezvous in the heart of the business district, the killers fired four shots into the restaurant. Giamanco lay dead on the sidewalk when the death car had passed, while Beelman, slumped over a cup of coffee in the restaurant, fatally wounded.

STRANGLES WIFE HE WAS HAPPY WITH FOR 50 YEARS

Smyrna, Turkey, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—A 70-year-old son of the soil, Saliah Aba, has just celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of his marriage with 90-year-old Aicha Hanem by strangling her with his bare hands.

When arrested the old peasant readily confessed to the crime, explaining "she never said anything mean to me for 50 years, then in the fiftieth year she called me a donkey and a son of a donkey and so I strangled her."

WALKER SHUNS WINE, PREFERS BERLIN BEER

Berlin, Aug. 25 (I.N.S.).—Those American critics of Mayor "Jimmy" Walker of New York who have accused him of expensive tastes were confounded today when Mr. Walker waver aside proffers of champaigne and fancy liquors in favor of common lager beer.

The incident took place at the luncheon tendered the New York Mayor at the famous Hiller Restaurant by the Karl Schurz Society. The other members of the Walker party followed the Mayor's lead and stuck to beer.

There is something more than the mere pursuit of pleasure in Mayor Walker's dancing in the clubs and cabarets of Europe until the early hours of the morning. The dapper mayor admitted as much today, asserting he is making a "scientific study o, things" in Europe.

Whether this included the night life of the countries he is visiting he did not say.

Asked what he thought of Berlin's "great White Way," the mayor answered: "Well, I am in Europe to study things scientifically. I haven't had time yet to form a judgment."

"How do you like the speed and rythm of German jazz?" he was asked.

"Oh, that depends on what street you are on," Mr. Walker replied.

In the next breath Mr. Walker expressed great admiration for the German hospitals that he had inspected.

JAMES M. BECK, JR., AND MRS. TENNYSON TO WED

New York, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—The New York American today prints an article by its society editor that says he is authorized to make formal announcement of the engagement of Clarissa Tennyson, former wife of Major Lionel Hallam Tennyson, to James Montgomery Beck, Jr., son of a former United States Solicitor-General.

Beck, Jr., was named in the divorce suit brought by Major Tennyson against his wife, Adelaide Wimerding, former wife of Mr. Beck, obtained a divorce from him last March in Paris. Mrs. Tennyson is a daughter by a former marriage of Viscountess Grey of Fallodon and is a niece of the Countess of Oxford and Asquith. Under the English divorce given Major Tennyson a month ago, Mrs. Tennyson and Beck were prohibited from marrying for 90 days.

FIND RICH WIFE WHO FLED WITH POLICEMAN

Columbus, O., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Found by police after a five months search, Mrs. Linda M. Bache, wife of a wealthy Plainfield, N. J., iron manufacturer, who eloped with a town policeman, today was making preparations to return to her home where she once complained of living a "drab existence."

Mrs. Bache, 44, disappeared last March on the same day that Policeman Joseph C. Devir, 30, abandoned his beat, which took him by the Bache home, and left his wife and infant. The couple was traced through a telegram the former policeman sent to a Plainfield bank, asking that his account there be transferred here.

2 ARRESTED IN ATTACK ON GIRLS AFTER YEAR'S HUNT

New York, Aug. 26 (A.P.).—The mysterious disappearance more than a year ago of John W. Mehl, wealthy Brooklyn real estate owner, was revived today with the arrest of two men, charged with an equally mysterious attack on Mehl's daughter and his sister shortly after his disappearance.

Charles and Jerry Torti, brothers aged thirty-one and twenty-four respectively, were arrested in Park Row, near Brooklyn bridge. One man, Samuel Seroka, a reputed friend of the family, is now serving a twenty-year prison sentence in connection with the case.

MACKAY SYSTEM TAKES OVER RADIO COMPANY

New York, Aug. 25 (I.N.S.).—Acquisition of the radio communication system of the Federal Telegraph Company by a subsidiary of the Mackay companies, of which the Postal Telegraph & Cable Co., is the leader, will make the Mackay system the only communication system offering complete land telegraph, ocean cable and land and ocean radio service.

The Federal Telegraph Company, a $6,000,000 concern, operates 6 points to point radio service in California, Washington and Oregon, and also a ship to shore radio service on the Pacific Coast.

CHICAGO GANGSTERS TO GO UNDER SANITY TEST

Chicago, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—The new enemy of Chicago gangsters and gunmen—police sanity tests—today had won a partial victory over Frank and Vincent McErlane, figures of the once powerful Saltis-McErlane gang, as they faced a tenday "stretch" in the Psychopathic Hospital for mental observation. The brothers, arrested in a fashionable hotel, wilted before the threat of this strange new weapon in the hands of the police and refused to take the simple tests which tell their minds' meanderings.

DESPONDENT SPRINGFIELD MAN SHOOTS HIMSELF

Springfield, Aug. 25.—"Well, I'll settle it all now," Leo Benoit, twenty-four, remarked in his home here to his brother-in-law today, and then fired a pistol shot into his own body over the heart. He was taken to the Mercy Hospital where no hope was held out for his recovery.

Benoit, whose wife was on a visit to relatives in Salem, had been despondent because of an injury sustained while at work. He believed this injury to be permanent.

T. R.'S RUNNING MATE NOW DUCK AND SNAKE HUNTER

New York, Aug. 25 (I.N.S.).—Theodore Roosevelt's running mate as Progressive candidate for Vice-President, ex-Governor John M. Parker of Louisiana, has been "rediscovered" in an isolated $500 farmhouse where for four years he has hidden from politics and amused himself shooting ducks and catching rattlesnakes, says Farm and Fireside.

"These past four years have been the happiest of my life," he is quoted as saying. "I wouldn't go back to late dinners, dress clothes, steam heat confusion—not for anything on earth."

Parker's little Louisiana retreat has several times provided a refuge for sought-after public figures. General John J. Pershing regularly hides out with the Governor each Spring and Fall to indulge in duck shooting, says the magazine.

No telephone, telegraph or radio connects the Parker farm with the rest of the world. When the recluse owner desires diversion he gets it taming wild turkeys or capturing rattlesnakes.

Attack German Embassy

Washington Aug. 25 (I.N.S.).—Several bottles and a tin box flung by mysterious hands broke a window in the German embassy early today. Police are investigating.

LAUNDRY RAZED IN $40,000 FIRE

Worcester, Aug. 25.—Muir's Laundry on Belmont street, near the outskirts of the city, was burned to the ground early today, the property loss being estimated at $40,000.

The cause of the fire was not determined. It was discovered by Alfred Dansereau of No. 66 Winfield street, one of the laundry men, who sounded an alarm.

When firemen arrived, after a long run, the entire two-story wooden structure was in flames. The plant employed 250 people and most of them lost personal effects.

USHER'S DEATH REVEALS HIM AS ONCE FAMOUS MAN

New York, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—The life history of a man who inherited fame and fortune, lost both and for more than a decade held an obscure position as usher in a Broadway theatre stood revealed today as the body of Murray Roe, 55, lay in the morgue awaiting an autopsy.

Roe, designer of the Riverside Drive viaduct, near Grant's tomb, for which he received $75,000, and son of the Rev. E. P. Roe, novelist, was found dead in a lonely section of Central Park. A few dollars, a watch and some letters were all that the clothing contained.

At the height of his success he married Miss Frances Donighan Thornton in 1905. He was a prominent figure in New York social life. His wife obtained a divorce and he went to South America, where he lost both health and money.

In 1918 he returned, took a job as porter at the Palace Theatre and rose to head usher.

Physicians established that his death apparently was due to asthma.

Suspect Slays Sheriff

St. Augustine, Fla., Aug. 25 (A.P.)—Deputy Sheriff Don Durrance of Flagler County was shot and fatally wounded by a negro suspected of being the slayer of Sheriff Perry Hall, Durrance's chief, who was killed Sunday at Bayard.

Bilbo's Majority 10,000

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Latest available tabulation of the votes in Mississippi's second primary Tuesday for the gubernatorial nomination indicated Theodore G. Bilbo had won over Governor Murphree by a majority of a little less than 10,000.

MYSTERY PLAY OPENS THE PLYMOUTH

Talk about your Sherlock Holmes! Not even the sage of Baker street in all his strange adventures could ever know the weird experience of Ramsey Wallace and his fellow players in "Secret Service Smith," the new mystery play which had its premiere last evening at the Plymouth Theatre.

For three harried acts the arch fiend, generally found at the bottom of this type of entertainment, successfully eluded the arch investigators set to catch him; and for three harried acts the intrepid first-nighters took their fill of synthetic terror, provided they looked at it that way.

"Secret Service Smith" was none of your ordinary mystery shockers. No, siree! It was quite different. There was nothing about who killed Cock Robin, nothing about a will and nothing of comic servants, which is really remarkable.

But there was a very great deal about a rapscallion of a magician who, it seemed, had picked up a pretty bag of tricks in India before the curtain went up, and then from sheer, utter sleight of hand to rather late in the evening tried them out on all they were worth.

To carry on the dirty work four, heavily complicated settings vied in importance with the largest collection of off-stage requirements ever seen in a Boston theatre. For a partial enumeration, there were a variety of moans, groans and maniacal laughter; thuds, bumps, booms and gallops.

But through every direful moment, Mr. Wallace, in the sleuthing title role, kept cool in the face of the worst calamity. Ditto George Probert and Norman Phillips, in the remaining principal roles, and ditto nearly all the other characters who struggled amid the perils of the mechanical department which, after all, contributed the real villainy of the evening.

DRUNKEN AUTO DRIVER SENT TO JAIL

Characterizing it as "extraordinary that a man convicted ten times of drunkenness could obtain a license from the registrar of motor vehicles to drive a motor vehicle," Judge Robert Wolcott, in East Cambridge Court, sentenced John J. Allen, former Cambridge policeman, to thirty days in the House of Correction today.

Allen, who lives in Windsor street, Cambridge, was also fined $20.

The sentence was on Allen's conviction of operating while under the influence of liquor. Four fines of $5 each were assessed for drunkenness, having no registration or license in his possession at the time of arrest.

When Allen was dropped as a policeman several years ago he carried his fight for reinstatement to the Supreme Court without avail.

DEMPSEY TO BUY $10,000 HOME FOR STELLE'S MA

Wilmington, Del., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Purchase of a home estimated to be valued at $10,000 is being negotiated here by representatives of Jack Dempsey.

The property will be presented as a gift to Mrs. H. J. Boylan, mother of Estelle Taylor, Dempsey's film actress wife.

BATTLES NEWS 'MONOPOLISTS' AT GENEVA

By DAVID M. CHURCH,
International News Service Foreign Editor.

Geneva, Aug 25.—The fight of the independent non-governmental or non-official news agencies against what is feared is an attempt by the official or governmental news agencies to establish a monopoly in news was brought nearer a head at today's session of the international conference of press experts when M. Koenigsberg, president of International News Service, presented a substitute resolution concerning property rights in news.

This resolution, which the independent agencies entrusted to Mr. Koenigsberg to draw up, is a substitute for one drafted by the secretariat of the League of Nations, at the instance of the official news agencies and affiliated agencies.

The independent agencies declare the secretariat's draft would create a monopoly in news for the official agencies.

The Koenigsberg resolution is designed to reaffirm the principle that news, as news, is public property, and that quasi-rights in it can be established only as against competitors.

Debate on the resolution probably will get under way tomorrow.

SEEK WOMAN, BORROWED BABY

The Boston police today were asked to search for two year-old Paul Bissonnette, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred G. Bissonnette of Cunnis Lane, South Lancaster.

According to Bissonnette, the child was loaned to Mrs. Louise Davenport of this city several days ago, and both woman and infant have dropped out of sight. Bissonnette told the police he and his wife became acquainted with a Mr. and Mrs. Davenport. The couple called at the Bissonnette home several times and on these visits Mrs. Davenport became much attached to little Paul.

On Aug. 17, Bissonnette said, Mrs. Davenport was given permission to take the little boy home with her for a few weeks, promising to keep in touch with his family meanwhile.

After two or three days had passed the father became nervous when nothing was heard from Mrs. Davenport, and came to Boston in search of her. He went to a hotel, he said, where she claimed to be living, and failed to find her. So he notified the police.

OLD GOLD PLANE SINGS IN NOVEL HUB FLIGHT

Ears of Boston shoppers and business people were turned into first class receiving sets at noon today when celestial music floated earthward.

With song and speech, with trumpet and tongue, Fred W. Bell and H. G. McGrath, New York radio announcers, showered Boston with a program of entertainment that was as novel as it was entertaining.

The program issued from a huge tri-motored Fokker plane that hovered a half-mile in the air over the business district. Taking off at the Boston airport just before noon, the ship, which is a duplicate of that flown by Commander Richard E. Byrd to the North Pole, headed straight for Summer street. For a half hour it circled over the State street-Washington street downtown district.

THOUSANDS WATCH PLANE.

Thousands stopped on sidewalks to watch the giant plane, flying at a comparatively slow speed of sixty miles an hour and pouring forth music and speech from huge horns hung beneath the six-passenger cabin.

"The music and speeches which are transmitted from the clouds have a range of several miles at an altitude of 3,000 feet," said A. H. Miller, manager of the enterprise, today.

"This is accompanied by an amplifying apparatus which is not radio, but which makes use of some radio principles. The announcers sit in a soundproof room in the cabin of the ship and talk into a microphone. The sound is carried through three big horns located on the floor of the ship.

TO COVER GREATER BOSTON.

"The Boston flight and others which will take place in various sections of New England during the next ten days are sponsored by the P. Lorillard Company, makers of Old Gold cigarettes.

"We shall cover all the forty towns of metropolitan Boston within the next few days, including the beaches, and then we shall fly along the South Shore to the Cape.

Afternoon flights were made over South Boston and Charlestown. The evening schedule called for a second Boston flight over the North and South stations and the business centre from 6 to 6:50, Cambridge from 6:50 to 6:30, Somerville 6:30 to 7:04 and Medford 7:04 to 7:30.

WALKER D. HINES' WORK FOR LEAGUE IS PRAISED

Geneva, Switzerland, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Walker D. Hines, former director-general of railroads in the United States, was warmly praised at today's session of the International Conference on Communications and Transit for his work in connection with the inquiry of the League of Nations into navigation on the Rhine and Danube rivers.

Silvain Dreyfus, French member of the Rhine Commission and chairman of the League of Nations permanent committee on communication and transit, expressed satisfaction that presence of the American delegation today gave him an opportunity to say "how extremely valuable the work of Mr. Hines has been."

BETTY ALDEN'S SOCIETY COMMENT

Mrs. Curtis Guild Devotes Much Time to Disabled Marines at Chelsea Hospital

MRS. CURTIS GUILD OF BOSTON and Nahant has filled many roles with graciousness and aplomb. She has been Ambassadress and Governor's Lady, philanthropist and society matron. But the one affording her keenest pleasure and satisfaction is none of these. It is the role of Fairy Godmother, which she plays regularly to a band of disabled and sick Marines dragging out a war aftermath in the Marine Hospital at Chelsea. To these the handsome Mrs. Guild devotes Tuesday afternoon of each week.

EVERY TUESDAY THE Marines are edified and amused, thanks to Mrs Guild's earnest work. In speaking of this labor of love, it's well to use three tenses of the verb "to devote," because Mrs. Guild's attention to disabled has been in the past, is of the present, and reaches into the future. Last Tuesday Mrs. Guild invaded the hospital with a merry band of entertainers, prince of whom was Jimmy Gallagher, donating his own and his players' services. Tuesdays to these shutins is a gala occasion.

THE VITTORIO ORLANDINI family is back on this side after a European voyage of several weeks. How very casually these members of the leisured traveled set take their ocean crossings, to be sure. They come and go with absolute casualness, such as the ordinary everyday person takes the trolley. The Orlandinis had their charming sub-debutante daughter, Miss Lastetia, with them. Miss Orlandini steps into the social arena in some two years or so predestined for social success, having poise and personality to the nth degree.

THE SUN OF GOOD FORTUNE continues to shine on the caravan pilgrimages of the Soldiers' Shop in spite of what Old Sol himself continues to dispense as Summer sunshine. The shining van and its contents (wrought diligently by the disabled) not only corrals the dollars but makes new friends for itself and its disabled veteran workers at every turn. Mrs. Clarence Ransom Edwards, patron saint of the Shop, its instigator and founder, has been visiting her sister in New York recently.

Sherman Whipple, 3d, with his bright-eyed, wire-haired terrier. 'Young Sherman is grandson of the widely known Boston attorney.

LITTLE MISS MARTHA ENDICOTT, small daughter of Mr Wendell Endicott, is spending some time with her grandfather, William A. Barron, down at the Barron Cohasset place during her father's pilgrimages in Alaska after big game. Grandpapa Barron's place at the Shore is the sort to delight a lively little girl with its horses and dogs, and a fleet of sailing and motor craft moored almost at the front steps. The Wendell Endicotts are making an Alaskan tour Mrs. Endicott and her party doing much sightseeing while Mr Endicott goes into the interior after big game.

STILLINGTON HALL'S PROGRAM heaps riches upon riches. A gala performance for September 8 now takes its place in the schedule. His Excellency, the Right Honorable Sir Esme Howard and Lady Isabella Howard sponsor the affair. It benefits the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre Foundation and smart society at the Shore greets its announcement with great enthusiasm. A brilliant prospect is in store and the possibility that no less a stage luminary than Ethel Barrymore may come on for the occasion. Even Stillington thus surpasses itself!

SPEAKING OF STILLINGTON and its affairs, a shower of congratulatory telegrams from friends in two hemispheres have come to Mrs. Hendricks Hallet Whitman, author and playwright, whose first long play is now holding the boards at Stillington. Friends far and near keenly anticipated "Fools Paradise" and those within motoring distance made it a point to be on hand for the Tuesday evening premiere. Mrs Whitman has for several years devoted serious study and work to stage authorship, with the happiest of results. She has her brother for stage manager, which makes the presentations even more interesting.

Finds Rare Books on Coins on Visit to Hartford Shop

Hartford, Ct., Aug. 25 (A.P.)—The collector's age-old dream of finding a rarity in an unexpected way has been realized by at least one member of the American Numismatic Association, now in convention here.

William H. Dunham of Chicago announced he "struck a gold mine" in a local bookshop, where he bought an extremely rare folio volume set, "Miscellanea Nummaria," by D. Gagnon, published in Latin in 1775-1774.

The books are parchment, bound in red morocco, in excellent condition, with 5,000 steel engravings of Greek and Roman coins. Mr. Dunham intends to give the set to the Chicago Art Institute.

MRS. HEARST IS VISITING SON IN SAN FRANCISCO

San Francisco, Aug. 25.—Mrs. William Randolph Hearst arrived from New York and Jackson, with Mrs. William Young of New York, and will spend several days here at the St. Francis. Mrs. Hearst has come to see her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Hearst, and their sons, George Randolph and Phoebe Apperson Hearst.

At the conclusion of their visit in San Francisco Mrs. Hearst and Mrs. Young will go to the Hearst ranch at San Simeon.

GREET 'GOLDEN VOICE' CANTORS

Prominent Boston and New England Jews gathered at South Station today to greet the oldest and youngest cantors of their faith.

One is Abraham Amtzi, who has been chief cantor of Tel Aviv Palestine, and is the oldest cantor in point of age. The other is Cantor Jacob S. Sisson the "golden voiced" tenor of Hoboken, N. J., who is coached by some in Adath Jeshurun Congregation in Roxbury.

Cantor Amtzi is to join Adath Israel Congregation in Malden.

GLADIOLUS EXHIBITION OPENED IN HARTFORD

Hartford, Ct., Aug. 25 (A.P.)—Thousands of gladiolus spikes transformed the floor of the State Armory into a vast field of varied coloring when the annual exhibition of the American Gladiolus Society, which brought shipments of flowers from many parts of the world, opened here this afternoon.

This morning the entries in the 362 classes closed and the judging for prizes began. More than 200 members of the Gladiolus Association have arrived for the show. Several European growers, together with a number from Australia and Canada have sent their choice selections and a few have come to compete for entries to assert the new flowers' selves.

360 Pies Not Enough for 300 Boys, So It's No Contest

Rochester, N. Y., Aug. 25 (A.P.)—A pie-eating contest, scheduled as a feature of the annual Democrat and Chronicle carrier boys' picnic, will through sadly, no winner being declared.

In fifteen minutes the 300 boys had eaten thirty dozen pies—all that had been provided. The ammunition failing, the contest was called off.

Final Bid ..... Played by .....

South is the dealer. What is the proper bidding and play?

In the next issue Mr. Whitehead will explain the several points in the bidding and play of the above hand. Fill out your own chart and compare it with his method.

These hands must not be bid or played "Double Dummy," i. e., as though all four hands were exposed.

Yesterday's Hand as Played by Mr. Whitehead

Salient Points of the Bidding

North's one No Trumps to shut out a lead-directing bid by East which, if made and passed by South, might leave North in a quandry as to his best procedure.

Salient Points of the Play

Trick 1. Before playing the Ace of Diamonds to Trick 1, South stops to count his hand. He has nine positive tricks, sure game, and sees a chance for a Grand Slam. To make it he must not only find a favorable break in Spades, Hearts and Clubs, but must also apparently win a Spade finesse. This finesse he plans to delay, however, until all possible indications can be obtained as to the distribution of the suit.

Trick 2.—With no reason for choice of leads as between Clubs and Hearts, Declarer selects Club.

Trick 10. At this point Declarer is able to read West's holding. He must have the King and Queen of Diamonds and his remaining two cards must be high spades. With low or indifferent cards of that suit, he would undoubtedly have discarded them in preference to his established Diamonds, but the discard of a high Spade would have revealed the Spade situation too clearly to the Declarer." Declarer places West therefore with the Q 10 of Spades, or possibly with the Q 8. Whichever the holding, Declarer can take the remaining tricks by playing the 8 in Dummy on his lead of the Ace.

Mr. Whitehead will answer questions concerning your Bridge problems. Write to him care of this paper, enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope.

NABBED FOR SEIZING WOMAN

Groton, Aug 25 — While Chief of Police Elward Leavitt, Mrs. Laura Adams and Elmer Stearns face arraignment on the charge of abducting Mrs. Verane L. Monroe, daughter of Mrs. Adams, in Ayer court today, State troopers are endeavoring to solve the motive that inspired the alleged kidnaping.

The trio were arrested after George L. Monroe, husband of the young woman, accompanied by attorney Morris Caplan, went to Ayer court. The parents were met by Corporal Frank A. Hitchcock and State Trooper George Watkins of the Lunenburg barracks.

The hair trouvers charge that Chief Leavitt, Mrs. Adams and Stearns went to Boston and took Mrs. Monroe out of a shoe factory where she was working and forced her to return to this town. Mrs. Adams lives in Hollis street.

Some hours after the alleged abduction Monroe, who resides in Cambridge, was on the trail of his wife. How he obtained the knowledge of the alleged abduction and of those who were arrested was not disclosed on the hearing tonight.

As soon as the warrants were issued by Court Clerk Parsons for three were taken into custody.

The arresting troopers took him to the station house and telephoned Parsons that the warrants had been served.

Parsons immediately came here from Ayer and the three were released after they had furnished $2,000 bail each. None of the women would say their arrest or the reason for their trip to Boston. Judge of Municipal Court Parsons refused to say whether he had issued the warrants.

An apparent "about face" developed today in the offer of the Boston & Maine Railroad to give to the city a portion of its land at half the assessed valuation in connection with the $1,000,000 widening of Nashua street, West End, to connect with the N. Station Artery.

POLICE CURB CROWDS.

Police patrolling inside a roped-off ea held in check a crowd of mo n 1000 persons today in front o undertaking establishment of ph Langone at No. 383 Hanover eet where the bodies of Sacco and nzetti will be exhibited to public w.
The little shop in the centre of block between Fleet and Clark eets, was the mecca for residents the entire North End hours be re the time arrived for the arrival the bodies there from the embalm rooms in the West End where y have been the last two days.
e crowd steadily increased and en it did so, added police were de-oned to the scene from the Han over street Police Station.
Both masks were being made of the two executed men and this deed the transfer of the bodies to ose two funeral parlors.

SUITS OF BLUE.

There was further delay when an dertaker's assistant brought in dies in which to dress the bodies.
ection was raised by Louis Bern-mer of New York, a member of defense committee, who hapned to be with the death-mask ptor at the embalming rooms.
Following a call to the committee adquarters, where a hurried con-ence took place, Bernheimer said t them in street clothes, like kmen wear." Black was barred this sombre, and suits of blue, ite shirts and shoes and other thes were hastily purchased.
Three hours were required by Ano Salemmi, New York sculptor, complete the death masks. A ist, slender, with pale face nervous fingers, he was considably overwrought by the ordeal, he expressed deep sympathy the executed men.
With the bodies lying side by side slabs, in a small windowless room ited only by three incandescents, performed his work of moulding plaster of Paris.
Objection to the cremation of Vantti's body was expressed today by s father in cablegrams from Italy received here by the defense committee. It is said that Vanzetti's sister, who is in Boston, also objects and a delicate situation has arisen.
Members of the committee said that Vanzetti told an attorney, on the eve of the execution, that he wished to be cremated and that the ashes be taken to Italy.

KEEP CROWDS MOVING.

Around the undertaker's shop on Hanover street police made an effort to keep the crowd moving along, and men, women and children, their eyes riveted on the place, were scattered over the entire block, but on the day wore on and the time for the arrival of the bodies neared the watchers edged closer and closer against the ropes.
The sidewalk between Clark street and Fleet street on the side on which Langone's is situated was roped off under the direction of the Street Commissioners.
Scores of persons in the crowd refused to heed the word given out by the police that there was no need for staying around because the bodies were not there, replying that they wanted to enter and see for themselves.
Sightseeing buses detoured through Hanover street and the megaphone men called attention of the riders to "the place where the bodies of Sacco and Vanzetti are."
After a last effort to hire a hall for exhibiting the bodies, the defense committee definitely decided today to use the Langone establishment.
Persons who wish to see the bodies will be required to enter in single file and move quickly past the coffins in the vestibule of the shop and out through a side door.
Candy factory girls and mothers with babes in their arms were among the crowd that pressed toward the shop all through the day.
Undertakers inside were busy "fixing up" the place, polishing the mahogany-colored woodwork and making other preparations.
Throughout Friday and Saturday the bodies will be on view, according to present plans. The funeral, ending in cremation at Forest Hills, will be held Sunday afternoon, the health authorities having granted a permit to wait beyond the legal four days for disposal of the bodies.
Work of making litters on which to transport the coffins through the streets of the city, on the shoulders of pall bearers working in relays, was begun today under the direction of the defense organization.
Gardner Jackson of the committee announced that delegations of sympathizers would arrive here on Sunday from New York, Providence,
Worcester, Fitchburg, Lawrence,
Lowell and two score other communities. But most of these, he said, cannot participate actively in the funeral because the procession must be limited to less than 200 persons under the law.

SEEK HALL IN NEW YORK.

In New York, sympathizers expect to have the ashes of Vanzetti on view on Monday and are endeavoring to hire a public hall for that purpose. "Tex" Rickard, famt promoter and head of the new Madison Square Garden Corporation, in a statement issued in Chicago, refused them the use of that gigantic auditorium.
Mrs. Sacco's disinclination to view the body of her husband was searched today to a philosophy
"which prohibits any emotional superstitions concerning such matters."
This was the statement of Gardner Jackson, who said that he expected she would adhere to the end to her decision not to look at either of the bodies.
Whether or not Miss Luigia Vanzetti, sister of Bartolomeo Vanzetti, will view her brother's body, Jackson said he not know.
In anticipation of the crowds expected on Hanover street until the funeral, storekeepers there began boarding up windows so as to prevent possible damage by the crush.
Permission for the extension of two days was granted by Dr.
Francis X. Mahoney, Boston Commissioner of Health. The permission was granted after a conference with Undertaker Langone, who has charge of the bodies.
At the same time Dr. Mahoney informed Langone that the funeral procession to Forest Hills cemetery, where the bodies are to be cremated, must be conducted with no demonstrations.
City officials asserted that if there was to be a band or line of march in the procession a permit would be necessary from the city. No application for any such permit has been made.
The funeral procession Sunday will be one of the strangest in the history of the city. According to the preparations being made by the Sacco-Vanzetti defense committee there will be no hearse, no bands playing dirges, no tall hats nor frock coats and no clergymen.
In silence the procession will tramp through the streets of Boston. The only insignia to be displayed will be a black band around the left arm of each mourner who follows the two biers to the scene of cremation.
Today a delegation of from sixty to one hundred pallbearers are to be chosen. They will march directly back of the two caskets which will be borne at the head of the procession on the shoulders of other pallbearers and it is planned to change the bearers at every block.
There will be little or no funeral rites at the chapel. The committee is considering the possibility of obtaining some man of national reputation other than a clergyman to deliver a simple eulogy over the bodies in the chapel.
Nothing definite has been decided.
According to Gardner Jackson of the defense committee, relatives and friends of the executed radicals will gather in North End park at 1:30 p. m., Sunday. At 2 p. m. the procession will start.
The marchers will proceed slowly to Hanover street, and from thence to Washington street. From Washington street the marchers will turn into Boylston street and thence to Tremont street. From Tremont street the procession will proceed to Beacon street, and will file slightly past the State House.
The National Citizens' Committee for Sacco and Vanzetti which has headquarters at the Hotel Bellevue today announced that its part of the bill for telegrams amounted to $620.

'Insure' Against Damage ⇜ As Crowds View Sacco

Defense Prepares Complete History of Sacco Case

Attorney Arthur Barnhart, associated with Attorney Arthur D. Hill in the last legal fight to save Sacco and Vanzetti from the electric chair, announced today that a complete history of the famous case is being prepared and will be placed in public libraries throughout the United States and other countries.

The work will include all the official court records and complete data from the time of the South Braintree crime to the day of execution. This material will occupy several large volumes and will be prefaced by an introduction by one of the defense counsel.

10,000 AT BIER OF MADEIROS

New Bedford, Aug. 25.—More than 10,000 morbidly curious persons viewed the body of Celestino Madeiros, who was executed Tuesday morning, as it lay in state in the undertaking rooms of Rogers & Sylvia, No. 216 County street. The body will lie in state all day today and will be buried Friday afternoon at Pine Grove Cemetery without a funeral service.
The body was placed on view at 12 a.m. A crowd had collected before that hour and from then until 9 o'clock at night, when the undertaking rooms were closed, a steady stream of people filed past the casket.
Few members of the crowd were friends or even acquaintances of either Madeiros or his family.

GOVERNMENT LEADS IN ERIN

Dublin, Aug. 25 (A.P.)—Government candidates were reported to be leading today as votes were counted in the two momentous elections held yesterday.
Defeat of the government in these constituencies would place it in the minority in the Dail Eireann.
The counting of the ballots proceeded rapidly, and it was expected the results would be known before night.

Marshfield Show Opens

Marshfield, Aug. 25.—The Marshfield Agricultural and Horticultural Society opened its annual cattle show and fair, but the rain prevented any of the track events, athletics and many of the exhibits were unable to open, but today the whole fair will be in full swing.

STORM DELAYS MANY LINERS

New York, Aug. 25. (AP)—Six vessels bound for New York with a total of 2,333 passengers were reported several hours to a day late today as the result of recent storms.
They are the Cameronia from Glasgow, the Martha Washington from Bremen, due today; the Fort Victoria from Bermuda, arriving today; the Mauna from Trinidad, a day late; the Santa Marta from Central American ports and the Maracaibo from Venezuela.

MAID IN FAMOUS HALL CASE SEEKS DIVORCE

Trenton, Aug. 25 (AP)—Mrs Louise E. Re—hl of South Brunswick, township, who as Louise E Gelst, a former parlor maid in the home of the Rev. Edward W. Hall, of New Brunswick, was an important figure in the revived investigation about a year ago into the Hall-Mills case filed suit in Chancery Court today for a divorce from Arthur S. Rieht of Roselle Park.
It wawa a prior suit brought by the husband asking an annulment of the marriage that led to the reopening of the celebrated murder mystery. Subsequently he withdrew the annulment action and filed a petition for divorce, charging desertion. Chancellor Walker denied him a decree.

finlay 39. It was a perfect day for golf and large galleries followed all four matches, the bulk going with Jones and Johnston.

Hilving the first three holes of the second nine in perfect figures, Evans still was one up at the twelfth hole Evans was one under fours at that point.

Ouimet took eleventh from Finlay and was two up again at the twelfth, which was halved.

McKenzie slipped on the 13th and 14th, taking a pair of sixes and lost both holes to Legg's pars, which squared the match. They halved the 15th in par.

Jones became 6 up on Johnston at the 12th by taking the first three holes of the second nine with two pars and a birdie, while Johnston got a bad six on the tenth owing to traps, went one over par on the short 11th with a 4 and lost the 12th to a birdie.

Johnston's explosion from a trap at the short eleventh was six feet from the cup, but he could not sink for a half.

At the 12th, 284 yards, Jones' chip was six feet from the cup and "Calamity Jane," his putter, not him down, while Johnston's approach from the rough was only 30 yards ahead of Bobby's drive and he took 4

Held squared his match with Evans at the 15th, where Chick won wide with his approach and went one above par for it. They had halved six holes in par just before that, both playing like machines.

Jones won the 16th and 14th and was 6 up on Johnston.

Ouimet took a six on the 14th and halving the 13th and the 16th was 1 up on Finlay. Both got birdie threes on the 346-yard 16th.

Finlay and MacKenzie and Harry Legg were square at the end of the first 18 holes.

LEGG SQUARES MATCH.

Legg had to win the 18th with a par 4 to be even when they went to luncheon. Each scored 76, MacKenzie slipping to 40 on the second nine, while the local star had 38 on the same.

Their in card:

Legg .....3 4 4 5 5 4 5 4 4—38—76
MacKenzie 4 4 6 4 4 5 4 5 4—40

Johnston won the 35th with a birdie, the only way a hole could be won from Jones, and cut his disadvantage to 7 down when Jones found the rough with his drive and and could do no better than par.

Tunney 9-5 Choice in Early Betting

Chicago, Aug. 25 (U.N.S.).—The "Winter Book" on the impending heavyweight championship brawl between Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey was formally opened today with Tunney quoted a 9 to 5 favorite to retain his title.

Chicagoans, overwhelmingly Dempsey, are getting their money on the mark. Members of the Chicago Board of Trade are said to be wiring sizable sums to New York Daily to be offered as low as 8 to 7 on the challenger.

One wager, reported yesterday, tied up $2,000 of Chicago Dempsey money with $2,700 of Gotham capital on Tunney.

Meanwhile, at Lincoln Fields Training Camp, Dempsey continued with the business of whipping the old fighting machine into shape. He is gradually getting down to a system of serious training, although there will be no demand for sparring mates until sometime next week.

BRONSON WILL ACT AS SECOND FOR TUNNEY

Speculator, N. Y., Aug. 25 (A.P.)—Jimmy Bronson, one of Gene Tunney's handlers while he was fighting with the Marine Corps in France, will be in the champion's corner when he meets Jack Dempsey at Chicago. Bronson was one of Tunney's seconds at the title fight last year at Philadelphia.

Bronson's selection, the departure of Paul Cavalier a spectator partner the return to camp of Eddie Eagan, former amateur heavyweight champion, and a visit of another group of the champion's friends marked a round of leisure in camp yesterday. Aside from seven miles on the road, the champion took things easy, abstaining entirely from any boxing.

Tunney has been a boxer without a headguard, although his sparring partners wore them. He said the protection was not needed.

Today's schedule called for the usual road jaunt, four rounds of boxing against sparring partners and several minutes at the light bags.

Present plans call for Tunney's departure for Chicago next Wednesday.

Dundee Under Ban in 24 States

New York, Aug. 25 (U.N.S.).—The ring appearances of Joe Dundee of Baltimore, world's welterweight champion, will be few and far between in the next few months, it appeared today.

Following an unsatisfactory fight in Wisconsin between Dundee and Pinkey Mitchell, the Wisconsin officials suspended Dundee for six months. As a result the National Boxing Association has banned Dundee's scheduled bout against Bobby Burns in Long Branch, N. J., tomorrow night.

Twenty-four State commissions are affiliated with the National Boxing Association and Dundee will have to do his fighting in the other 24 States.

MARYLAND TRACKS PUT UP $1,000,000

New York, Aug. 25.—Purses and stake money totaling over $1,000,000 will be hung up at the Autumn racing meetings in Maryland this year, according to an announcement by the Harford Agricultural and Breeders' Association. The racing will be run through September, October and November and will be started with the staging of the Autumn season at Havre de Grace on Sept. 24.

Leo Flynn Describes the Finish of Sharkey

(This is the seventh of a series of articles in which Leo P. Flynn, the noted trainer, tells how he brought back Jack Dempsey.)

By LEO P. FLYNN, Manager of Jack Dempsey.

New York, Aug. 25.—The wild squawk that Jack Sharkey let loose after his knockout by Jack Dempsey came as no surprise to me. I knew it was on the way at the end of the sixth round, and so did Dempsey.

Dempsey took his first punch at Sharkey a hard one in the sixth, but he did not connect squarely. By this time the great crowd sensed that the tide of battle had changed. So did Sharkey. I could tell by the way he was fighting that his spirit was broken. When Dempsey came back to the corner I called the turn.

"This is the round to go out and finish him, Jack," I whispered. "That guy is getting ready to fold up. I can tell by the way he's acting.

"He's getting ready to holler foul. Let him have a couple more in the head basket and then give him everything you've got on the chin."

As Jack left the corner I called after him:

"Don't forget now! Step back on your right foot."

You may not know that Dempsey is a natural southpaw. He hits harder with his left than any heavyweight that ever lived. I wanted him to be set for this punch. I wanted it to be the hardest blow he had ever struck.

SOLAR PLEXUS BLOW.

The punch that softened Sharkey for that final left on the jaw was a right hand in the solar plexus. I think I can prove it.

The biggest point that Sharkey advanced in support of the contention that he was fouled is that he suffered internal hemorrhages for days after the fight.

What will Mr. Sharkey say when I tell him that EVERY SPARRING PARTNER WHO WORKED WITH DEMPSEY HAD THE SAME EXPERIENCE?

The trouble with Sharkey was that he was hit with a real good right in the stomach. He had never sampled anything with such power behind it, and he didn't know that anyone could hit that hard.

I don't give Sharkey much for the attitude he took. He tried to take away glory which Dempsey richly deserved to furnish himself with an alibi.

Sharkey's mouth popped open from that right hand. He must have thought that some one had bumped him with a five-ton trunk. He dropped his guard and turned his head to expostulate, and as he did Jack soaked him with the hardest left to the jaw I ever saw. That was the stiffener. Sharkey went down as if he'd been shot.

Before O'Sullivan could have counted to sixty, and he still would have been on the floor. As it was, Sharkey got a pretty long count.

Even Sharkey can't throw any asparagus at that left hand. I don't think anyone ever has seen a perfect exhibition of co-ordination than Dempsey gave in delivering that blow. Everything about it was perfect. Dempsey hit that one from his heels.

I never felt like kissing a man in my life, but I came pretty close when Dempsey came back to our corner. There were tears in his eyes, and no wonder.

Subsequent events will bring together Joe Moran of East Boston vs. Billy Glover of South Boston, rivals in a return melee, and Mickey King, U. S. S. Shawmut, vs. Tony Solnick, M. N. A.

Al Longoro, U. S. S. Lexington, vs. Danny Dugan, Charlestown, feature in the event for 135-pounders.

Haines and Alex Busiest Hurlers

St. Louis, Aug. 25 (A.P.)—Grover Cleveland Alexander and Jess Haines, pitching aces for the world champion Cardinals, pace all rivals in the National League in the number of innings pitched, according to the pitching records.

The twirling duo has [illegible] each pitchers, is the leader in the number of completed games pitched. They are tied with the pacemaking Yankee pair, Waite Hoyt and Dutch Ruether of the American League, in the number of runs permitted in each nine innings.

While the Yankee flingers show the way in winning percentages they have [illegible] to Jess' 3.31 [illegible] while the Cardinal pair have pitched in 4.6. Haines and "Old Pete" between them have won 37 games.

FORMER NOTRE DAME GRIDDER WILL COACH

Sterling, Ill., Aug. 25.—Harold McCabe, star fullback on Notre Dame's 1926 grid team, has been signed football coach at St. Mary's Community High school here. He will report September 6.

FAST FEATHERS IN ACTION AT FORT BANKS

All signs point to another big rally of the faithful tonight at the static tourney to be staged by the Fort Banks A. A. at Winthrop.

Free parking for autists, the regular band concert feature by the fort musicians, combined with the plumb-full-of-action contests put on inside the ropes, have for weeks proved an irresistible magnet.

Featherweights will have the call at the top of tonight's card, with Louis Prince of Manchester, N. H., meeting Henry Jance, the Navy champion of the U. S. S. Florida, in the eight-round windup.

Another eight-rounder will bring together Jimmy [illegible] of Nashua and Dick Pifani of [illegible], both lightweight favorites, the patrons of the game at the Winthrop fort.

There will be three sixes, two featherweight events and one between lightweights, the two former being together Joe Moran of East Boston vs. Billy Glover of South Boston, rivals in a return melee, and Mickey King, U. S. S. Shawmut, vs. Tony Solnick, M. N. A.

Al Longoro, U. S. S. Lexington, vs. Danny Dugan, Charlestown, feature in the event for 135-pounders.

Report Langford Will Fight Here For Eddie Mack

Chicago, Aug. 25.—Walcott Langford, the colored battler and middleweight champion of Illinois has been offered a chance to meet Wop Manallan of Boston in the main bout of the Argonne A. A. in Boston next Monday or Tuesday night. This offer was made by Eddie Mack, matchmaker of the Argonne Club. Langford expects today to decide whether he will accept. Langford has met Dave Shade, Jack Mckey and Jack Malone in his last three battles.

MULDOON AND FARLEY AT ODDS OVER RING WAR

By ED FRAYNE.

New York, Aug. 25.—Even the [illegible] and the time has finally arrived for "Big Jim" Farley and "Bill" Muldoon, long [illegible] with a thud that reverberated all over town yesterday afternoon.

As might have been expected, the split came as a result of the never-ending fued between the Fugazy and Rickard forces. Farley long a very [illegible] in favor of Fugazy, was a Muldoon, went equally strong for Rickard.

SHOW STARTS IT.

The fuse was precipitate when Eddie [illegible] over the [illegible] Fugazy asked for permission to put the first [illegible] show at Ebbets Field. He wanted to stage it [illegible] and in direct opposition to weekly Madison Square Garden show.

According to Abe Yaeger, Farley approved the [illegible] on the [illegible] of the State Athletic Commission.

The news was radioed to Jess Mc-Mahon a few moments after it became known. It happens that McMahon has an unusually interesting heavyweight show scheduled at the Garden tonight, and it also happens that there is an iron-clad rule that no club can promote two cards [illegible] at any one time.

RULE BROUGHT UP.

This rule was discussed only Tuesday at the commission meeting, when Tom Gallagher, who has been allowed to stage Tuesday night's Queensboro A. C. show tonight. He was turned down flat by the commission at that [illegible] Every time Rickard has postponed one of his big shows, he has had to "buy out" smaller clubs who had previous dates to that night. Sometimes he has had to pay as high as $3,000 a club.

The indignant McMahon immediately filed a protest with the Board Over the [illegible] he said, Muldoon assured him that Fugazy would not [illegible] to interfere with the Garden [illegible].

RULE APPLIES TO BOTH.

"Our rule applies to Fugazy just as well as Rickard," boomed the veteran commissioner, "if Fugazy calls off his show tonight, he will have to postpone it to his next open date, just as any other promoter would have to do."

Fortunately for all concerned, the weather cleared up.

Fugazy decided to go ahead with his show.

And what looked like a fine old knock-down-and-drag-out between the world's two leading [illegible] Mr. Muldoon has been absolutely ruined. There would have been a stormy scene at today's meeting if the issue had remained over, but there no longer is anything to fight about.

However, it is the first inkling that the public has had of the fact that the Farleys and the Muldoons do not always think along the same party lines.

DERING RE-ELECTED HEAD OF TRAPSHOOTING ASS'N

Dayton, O., Aug. 25 (A.P.)—Guy U. Dering of Columbus, O., was elected to succeed himself as president of the American Trapshooting Association at a meeting of the State delegates at the annual tournament here. Every State in the Union was represented at the meeting as well as the Panama Canal Zone and the Canadian Provinces.

O. B. Ford, Delmonte, Cal., was elected as president of the Pacific Coast; John W. Lenehman, Lancaster, Pa., was re-elected as vice-president of the Eastern Coast, and Ike Andrews of North Carolina was chosen to succeed Uley R. Brooks, Columbia S. C., as the Southern vice-president.

W. W. Sunderland, Dayton, O., was selected as treasurer.

JAP DAVIS CUP STAR BEATEN, 6-0, 6-3, 6-2

By FRED C. LANE

Chestnut Hill, Aug. 25.—Henri Cochet winner of the Wimbledon title put France in the lead for the right to play America for the Davis Cup here today when he defeated Yoshiro Ohta champion of Japan in three straight sets the score of which were 6-0, 6-3, 6-2.

Cochet, conqueror of William Tilden and the star of the French team experienced no trouble defeating the Jap star. He outclassed his opponent at every angle of the game, never once being in trouble or even threatened.

Chestnut Hill, Mass., Aug. 25.—It took Henri Cochet [illegible] minutes to win the first set from Ohta. The Frenchman's even game which was featured throughout by his wonderful control, made the Japan player look like a novice.

Ohta, who upset the title of champion of Japan, was no match for the [illegible] Frenchman.

[illegible] started off the match using [illegible] Ohta's service in the first game.

Cochet	4	7	4	4	4	4	—27—	6
Ohta	1	5	1	2	0	2	—11—	0

Ohta fared better in the second set, but Cochet was not extended to win. Cochet received the loudest plaudits of the day in every [illegible] when [illegible] and [illegible] the same for pretty placements. The score of this set was:

Cochet	4	4	2	4	4	2	4	31	3
Ohta	2	2	4	2	1	4	2	17	6

Cochet was playing a fast game in contrast to the hard driving of Ohta. The offensive play of Ohta [illegible] in this set, for the [illegible] Cochet's game, but the Frenchman [illegible] at any one time.

The Jap's greatest rally happened in the ninth and deciding game when he forced the count to deuce seven times.

Cochet played just a little harder when called upon and won the second set with a brilliant 6-0 [illegible] that caught Ohta out of position.

Second set:

Cochet	4	4	2	4	4	4	2	4	31
Ohta	2	1	4	0	6	1	4	2	9

Ohta attempted many changes in tactics at the [illegible] but Cochet's service from the baseline. Each time it took but 30 minutes of actual play for victory.

Third set:

Ohta	4	2	4	2	0	3	4	6	—19
Cochet	6	4	2	4	4	5	1	4	—30

Jack Delaney and Reilly Reinstated

New York, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Pete Reilly, manager of Jack Delaney, was reinstated by the New York State Athletic Commission today along with his entire stable of boxers when Reilly assured the board that the settlement had been made with the Coney Island Stadium, where Delaney was matched to fight Jack Sharkey last.

The manager and his boxers were suspended indefinitely last Tuesday for Reilly's failure to appear before the commission in answer to the Stadium's complaint that Delaney refused to fulfill his contract with the Boston heavyweight. The retired fight heavyweight champion promised to meet some suitable opponent at the Summer resort club.

FORE RIVER AMATEUR SHOW ON SEPT. 2

The Fore River Amateur Boxing show which was postponed from last Friday night on account of rain, is scheduled for Friday night, September 2 at the Fore River [illegible] Quincy. Seven bouts will be contested: 126, 147, and 160 pounds and heavyweight. Entries will remain open until Aug. 31 with Pat Maley, No. 9 Navilus Terrace.

Bouts Last Night

(By the Associated Press)

New York—Sid Terris, New York, defeated Phil Kaplan, Detroit, (10); Jimmy Goodrich, Buffalo, won from Eddie Kid Wagner, Philadelphia, (8); Ernesto Rebolini, Italy, knocked out Pietro Terri, Brooklyn, (2); Al Ruhe Goldberg, New York, beat Pancho Rencio, Philippines (10).

Cleveland—Mickey Walker, middleweight champion, won from Wilson Fields, Cleveland (10).

Darien, Ky.—Midget Query Newport Ky. knocked out Billy Fralick, Detroit (8); Oakland Cal.—Young Johnny Burns Oakland, middleweight, defeated Tiger Thomas, Philadelphia (10).

RISKO-GAGNON VICTOR TO GET MALONEY GO

The Argonne A. A. bargain bout [illegible] will be staged between [illegible] and [illegible] if the weather man [illegible].

There will be eight bouts with 16 contestants, the whole shaking it into 10 rounds of action, titles and championships in the discard.

The heavies in the two 10-rounds feature bouts are already to step [illegible] and are known to get it over nice.

Jerry Risko of Cleveland and Jack Gagnon of New Bedford, mainstays in Eddie Eagan's ranks, have [illegible] to go. Both want a meeting [illegible] Jim Maloney and there is [illegible] Jack Lee Keeper of [illegible] Mahon secure Maloney [illegible] Lee appeared on a [illegible] Boston out, in lieu of the defeats [illegible] substituted, he may be [illegible] to start in here all over again.

[illegible] of his greater experience [illegible] to come through the [illegible] but it is Gagnon's [illegible] and with the latter has a chance. One slam can alter the entire situation.

In the other 10, Friedman vs. Pe Rosiers the latter has the call with the fans who saw him demolish Corley and Stone. The Rosiindale man is the better boxer—more [illegible] than the "Fighting Frenchman," but De Rosiers has experience and punch as assets. Billy Friedman has stayed in there with Joe Monte, the latter counted by many as a better fighter than the Roxbury boxer, Al Wax but lack for backers.

The rest of the card for tonight follows: Fours, Fred Lambert, Fort Hill, vs. Jimmy Cooney, Boston, Fred Hearn, Fall River, vs. Mihail Cano, North End, Jack Sullivan, Beacon, vs. Johnny Cooney, South End; sixes, Arthur Sullivan Hosmidale, vs. Tommy Clayton, West End; K. O. Roberts, Fall River, vs. Jimmy Barrett, Cambridge; Terry McVann, Manchester, vs. Wally Theroux, Nashua.

Heavies Are at Garden Tonight

New York, Aug. 25.—Several tons of beef will be hauled into Mr. Tex Rickard's refrigerating plant, otherwise the New Garden, tonight, there to be placed on exhibition before those fight fans who like their a la modes served on the hoof.

Jack Renault, the saddle-worn heavyweight from Canada, will renew [illegible] after a long period of inactivity. He has been booked to swap punches, or mebbe [illegible] with Arturo Pelusi, the [illegible] Italian, in the main [illegible] of a program featuring three 10 round bouts.

Monte Munn, the Nebraska legs lariat, has a date to [illegible] Mc-Tequah in the semi-final. Something should fall here and I don't think it will be far from it. Probably the best fight of the night will be the first [illegible] between two junior [illegible] Johnny Urban of Pittsburgh, and Benny Touchstone of Boston.

Both [illegible] heavyweight hope from Jack Sharkey meets Marco Piro Tommy Grays promising young [illegible] in one of the four-rounders. Bernard Jabbadi faces Jack Darnell in the other.

HITCHCOCK IS READY TO PLAY

American Polo Star Will Face British Team; Merely Took Day's Rest

New York, Aug. 25.—Thomas Hitchcock, Jr., will surely play No. 2 with the American big four when it stacks up against the British challengers at Meadow Brook on Labor Day. That he is fit to play, and fit right now, can be stated on young Mr. Hitchcock's own authority.

It would be unnecessary to go into this even to the above extent were it not that international polo like politics is subject to the circulation of rootbacks on the eve of the big battle.

It was rumored that Tommy would not appear at his position in the next practice game played by America.

That means of course that Winston Guest substitute, will ride in his place. At once the wild rumor went forth that the American star was in bad physical shape and might be superseded by young Guest in the big matches.

The fact is that Hitchcock has played practice more polo than any of the others this season, and has really needed a rest from time to time.

On the day when he turned in a poor game and was not himself, and up to the time of his injury by a mallet, he was suffering from the intense heat. And so, for that matter were the others. Only the ponies were not so conspicuous.

More than once, notably in a practice at Meadow Brook and an other at Talbot Field Tommy had taken a rest. If it seems wise for him to rest another day just now it does not mean that he is either an invalid or a cripple.

Under something happens to him in the course of the big matches, the great American star will be there shooting goals and riding off occasional Englishmen from start to finish.

Fundamentally, it is not a bad plan, anyway, to give Guest an other go in the position for which he is a substitute on the big team, especially as he has had to concentrate so much lately at No. 1, a post that until recently had been constantly new to him.

However, it is always possible that Hitchcock will become sufficiently broiled to insist upon playing himself.

In the meantime, some field on Long Island will be ready for play today unless it rains some more, and the probabilities are that the British team, which has had the hardest luck in the matter of preliminary schedules, will have the use of the field and the dog, and the appearance of the American team will go over once more.

McTigue to Quit After 3 Fights

New London, Ct., Aug. 25 (A.P.)—Mike McTigue, veteran boxer, recognized by the New York Boxing Commission as light-heavyweight champion of the world, will be held the New London Day that he would retire from the ring after three more battles. McTigue is here on a vacation at Ocean Beach here before going into training for his bout with Tommy Loughran October 4. Two other bouts will follow within nine ty days. All three appears on will be under Tex Rickard's promotion.

DEMPSEY DOES TRAINING IN SECRET

Chicago, Aug. 25 (A.P.)—There is a cloak of secrecy around Jack Dempsey these days as he pursues his way toward the come-back bout with Gene Tunney and the title

Stripped to the glistening blue of his training trunks, the erstwhile Manassa Mauler has definitely swung into action, with only newspapermen and his retinue of followers witnessing his early preparations.

The arrival of Dave Shade, California middleweight, and Dempsey's sparring partner, was the signal for the opening of activities at the Lincoln Field camp.

The program the remainder of the week calls for road work, shadow boxing, hitting the bag and the dumbbells and similar exercises, Impresario and Manager Leo P. Flynn has ruled against any sparring until next week.

Dempsey's extra poundage was visible yesterday, but he perspired freely and appeared well pleased after the day's work. A Wisconsin lumberjack, Leo Popple of Stevens Point, gave Jack a workout on the mat, the heavyweight wrestling a few rounds with the former titleholder.

FACES WIZARD OF LINKS

Harrison "Jimmy" Johnston has faced some tough matches in his long career but today he goes against the master Bobby Jones in the national amateur golf tourney at Minneapolis. Johnston disposed of Dick Jones and Don Carrick for the right to meet Bobby. This is today's big match. It should attract a large gallery.

CORKRAN LEADS FIELD IN EKWANOK CUP TOURNEY

Manchester, Vt., Aug. 25.—Warren Corkran of Baltimore, led a field of 130 golfers in the qualifying round of the 28th annual Isham cup tournament at Ekwanok Country Club with a card of 78. The weather was very cold and the general results seemed to reflect a definite result of this condition for there were but six scores under 80.

The first division of 32 broke in a field of 84 where seven players piked off for five positions. R. J. Willis of Little Falls and W. Maxwo of Hoosick, lost, leaving Jack Sellers of Wingfoot, Elliott Shanley of Essex County, Frank Taussig of St Andrews, Frank C. McLain of Brookside and C. E. Mason, Jr. of Brookline in the first flight.

MICKEY SEARS TO BOX COHEN

Mickey Sears of the famous flight ing Sears of East Boston was matched today to meet Meyer Cohen of Holyoke, New England welter weight champion on the night of Sept. 12 at Holyoke, Mass.

Sears formerly known as K. O Billy Ryan of Providence has built for himself an enviable reputation by virtue of thirty five straight wins over some of the best welters in New England, including such boys as Larry Scigoulis, Eddie Adonis, Gene Mars, Martin Fisherty, Johnny Curelo, Johnny Wilson and many others

While boxing under the name of Ryan Sears completed a four-year course at Providence College, graduating last June with high honors

It is now the ambition of Sears to get a shot at Al Mello of Lowell whom he feels that he can master In meeting Cohen for the New England title he feels that should he be returned the winner Mello will no longer be able to dodge the issue.

CROUCH LEADS ARCHERS

P. W. Crouch of Newton Centre led in the field in the first York round in the National Archery Association 48th annual target meeting at Soldiers Field today. Crouch with a score of 1.5 and 535 gained over distances of 40 and 80 yards respectively was well in front.

A. L. Brush of Concoh, Ct., was second with 107 and 497 as his totals, while S. S. Spencer of San Pedro, Cal., was third with 102 and 448 as his totals.

Coast to Coast Run Planned by Seiler

New York, Aug. 25.—To set a record of cross country running from the Atlantic to the Pacific, from Atlantic City, N. J., to Los Angeles, Cal., John J. Seiler, known as "The Flying Yank," plans to leave Atlantic City of September 10 He hopes to make a better average than fifty miles per day, running six days per week, or about 300 miles weekly, and expects to set a record of seventy running days for the distance of 3,500 miles from coast to coast. "The Flying Yank" will be accompanied by an official appointed by the Chamber of Commerce of Atlantic City.

Seiler last Winter ran from Danville, Va., to Miami, Fla., a distance of 1,380 miles, in seventeen days, twenty-two hours and twenty-five minutes

He will carry with him an autographed photograph of the winner of the 1927 beauty contest at Atlantic City, to be delivered to the Mayor of the Rose Festival at Pasadena, Cal.

Walker Wins Easily

Cleveland, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Wilson Yardo, Cleveland negro, took a severe beating from Mickey Walker here last night in a bout that went the scheduled 12 rounds to a decision in favor of the middleweight champion.

ROY MITCHELL TO SHOW PUNCH AT ARENA SHOW

Tom Goodwin, shrewd judge of fighting men and promoter of the Sammy Fuller-Johnny Sheppard New England featherweight championship battle at the Arena next Monday night, serves warning on the fight public to cast a critical eye at Roy Mitchell, the colored light heavyweight from Halifax who is to box tough Tex McEwan of Philadelphia in an eight round bout on a card that is spangled with stars.

Without a solitary doubt, the colored Apollo from the Provinces is the most feared light heavyweight on the Continent. His record, made in the North country tells the answer, for when he was 21 years old he knocked out Bing Conley of Lewiston, who had no trouble slaying 10 rounds with Paul Berlenbach and Tiger Flowers; knocked out our own Rocky Roebound Stone; defeated Tommy Robson of Malden, fought a sizzling draw with clever Yale Okun, and battled Mike McTigue down to the last wire.

The result has been that white light heavyweights have refused to meet the colored star, and for months he has remained idle here, while Goodwin has approached every light heavyweight of note in the land, only to be turned down. Perhaps memories of Sam Langford and George Dixon, two other negro stars who came from Nova Scotia, drove prospective opponents away Perhaps the stories that Okun and McTigue and the others have told about his great punching power had their effect

Next Monday night Mitchell is to get his chance, and if he performs as brilliantly against McEwan as he did in Canadian rings against worthy while opponents, it will not be many weeks before the colored youngster is on top of the card, fighting in main bouts, making history as Langford and Dixon have done,

McEwan is no set-up. A few months ago he battled Joe Monte 12 vicious rounds in Portland. One newspaper gave him the decision The other gave it to Monte, who is leaving Jimmy Maden in another eight-rounder Monday night. At any rate, it was a 12 round battle, and perhaps could have been called a draw if decisions were given in Maine

Sheppard, Fuller, Monte, Madden, Mitchell, Jackie Donohue, Al Delmont, Boston College Jack Donohue and Danny Sears—a great collection of local cards pitted against opponents that will make them fight. Goodwin believes that this is the best he has ever made, and with bargain prices prevailing, he believes that the Arena will be swarmed with fight fans Monday night.

TILDEN BEATS APPEL

Newport, R. I., Aug. 25 (N. S.)—After a two-day layoff due to a downpour of rain, play in the Casino singles and doubles tournament was resumed here today.

William Tilden, 2nd, of Philadelphia, present holder of the Casino Cup, advanced another step in the defense of his laurels by eliminating Kenneth Appel, of East Orange, N. J., without undue difficulty, 6—0, 6—2, in the third round of the singles.

Francis T. Hunter, Tilden's Davis Cup running mate, also entered the fourth round in easy fashion by defeating M. H. Partridge of New York, 6—2, 6—4

Frank Shields, National Union won 1 4, 6—2 from Frank M. Luce, Jr., Boston

A three-set battle was waged before Manuel Alonso, former Spanish Davis Cup player, who is ranked in the United States ranking could not be found, and Wilmer Allison, Jr., of Austin, now living in New York Scores were 6—2, 1—6, 6—2.

SWEENEY BROTHERS ADVANCE AT EDINBURGH

Edinburgh, Scotland, Aug 25 (AP)—Charles and Robert Sweeney of New Milford, Ct., passed safely through the third round of the British boys' open amateur golf championship today. Charles eliminated a boy from Marlboro gh, England, while his brother defeated a Scotch lad.

Inside Golf

—By Chester Horton—

Smoothness throughout the golf swing has its beginning in smooth ness at the start. Eddie Loos once told me that he make it a general rule to see his clubhead start back from the ball, always I think that's a good method for starting the golf swing as I have ever known of Always see your clubhead start away from the ball, and that applies even to the putter. One can do that with out removing the gaze from the ball, and I have observed, also, that you can even watch the clubhead start, then return your gaze to the ball. The application of this method however, is more psychological than anything else. You can see the club head start without actually seeing it, merely by knowing that it has started slowly.

Red Chapman at Last Gains Recognition

—By Jack Conway—

"I'M rooting for Red Chapman to conquer Benny Bass when they battle for the world's featherweight championship at the Sesqui-Centennial Stadium in Philadelphia on September 12," declared Mr. Boston today. "I believe the boxing fans of Boston and New England will be with Red to a man.

"A year ago, when every Tom, Dick and Harry was crowning the world's featherweight crown, the Boston Evening American asked the fans to name the real champion. The vote of the fans was for Chapman Close to 35,000 ballots were received for the Charley Cerdio entry

"This was a wonderful expression of how the public felt towards Chapman. The fact that no prizes were offered to the fans proved that everybody was anxious to give Red the recognition his work in the ring entitles him to

"For six years Chapman has been one of the world's outstanding featherweights. If it were not for the trickery often connected with boxing, Chapman would have reached the peak long before he did

"Red gave Johnny Dundee an artistic thumping in Boston only to be denied a clear claim to the featherweight title on the ground he was over weight. Chapman was below 126 pounds at 3 o'clock, but was forced to put on weight before the official weighing in on the threat that Dundee wouldn't go through with the contest.

"Red took on all-comers with reckless abandon and usually left the ring carrying the banner of victory.

"Chapman was twice matched with Kid Kaplan at times when the latter was recognized as world's featherweight champion, but could have the Connecticut warrior run out on him.

Mr. Boston

"AFTER Honeyboy Finnegan withdrew from his bout with Chapman on the ground he could no longer make the featherweight limit, the New York Boxing Commission recognized Red as the world's champion.

"Like a real little holder, he has elected to defend his honors against Benny Bass at the Sesqui-Centennial Stadium, Philadelphia, and Chapman will receive a $13,000 guarantee and a 30 per cent. end.

"Philadelphia and Pennsylvania are all steamed up over the match. Mayor Kendrick of Philadelphia has donated a $1,000 championship belt, while all of the leading citizens are scrambling for the ringside seats.

"It will be the second meeting between Chapman and Bass. When they clashed at Madison Square Garden on New Year's Night Red won a foul in the first round. It was a seesaw battle from the scrap, but keen judges of finite affairs would favor that Chapman knocked Bass cold with a solar plexus punch

"CHAPMAN is now stepping right into Bass' home town to defend his championship. One must admire Red's courage

"If Chapman can retain his championship until next Summer, I'll venture the guess that he will draw a $100,000 gate outdoors if pitted against Sammy Fuller, Johnny Sheppard or whatever local featherweight is on top of the heap by the time the Summer of 1928 rolls around.

"Chapman has always had a tremendous following. With the Jews of Boston, he is as great an idol as Benny Leonard was with the Jews of New York at the time he was lightweight king.

"Fuller is as popular with the Italians as Johnny Dundee was when at the crest of his victory wave, and Johnny Sheppard also has a large following. Some kid like Jackie Donahue may come along and knock Fuller and Sheppard from their present positions and get the big shot at Chap man.

"Sharkey and Maloney set a record for Boston when they drew $56,000 at Braves Field two years ago last June. The next time Sharkey Maloney bout had been staged here they it would take prices up to $200,000. Tex Rickard's ticket sale for that contest showed that $70,000 came from New England

"Meanwhile we'll sit and root for Red to do his stuff as Tunney did when he steps into the Sesquicentennial Stadium on the night of September 12."

JACK DEMPSEY Tells of Comeback

(Copyright, 1927, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

NOT so long ago I sat behind a friend of mine who was playing a game of bridge. He's rated as one of the stars; plays brilliantly and almost always perfectly.

Yet that time he played a sad sort of game. Everything broke against him in the way of luck, almost everything he tried to do he did wrong. Nothing went right for him. As a result, this fellow and his partner were beaten by a pair of men who were not figured to be in—or anywhere near—their class.

After the game was done we all sat around a while and chatted, and finally my friend said to me

"Jack, I'll never be a success at bridge unless I can figure out your bad show ng against Tunney in Philadelphia."

My answer was

"Nor will I be able to explain your bad showing at bridge today."

He replied:

"Well, that's easy for me to explain. I never got a lucky break all through the games. Furthermore, everything I tried to do was wrong. Everything I tried to do was all wrong. A fellow playing bridge gets into such a rut every once in a while."

"AND a fighter gets into a rut, too," I said. "You examine your defeat by a couple of the bridge players tonight and you'll see that you didn't have much luck with you couldn't get going right, and you started wrong and the further you played the worse you got.

"Now, that's pretty much the same explanation for my showing in the Tunney fight in Philadelphia. Luck is an element that figures in about everything we do. We all need our share to win or to be a success.

"I didn't get a lucky break all during those ten rounds with Tunney. I threw a dozen punches with enough power in them to drop Tunney. But all of them missed—by a fraction of an inch.

"But let's forget the luck thing Let's forget that I just wasn't feeling right. Let's just look at the fight itself, without any specific alibi.

"I GOT away to a bad start; couldn't do anything right in the first round. I thought I'd get going in the second—but didn't. Then I tried my old wart operating on Tunney's chin until the fifth round.

"Everything I tried went wrong. I used the old shift. But I was slow with it. I straightened up in my style of fighting—and Tunney punished me. I crowded him—and he hit me hard. My style trying to shift, trying to hit short punches, then long ones—and everything I did was all wrong.

"I shot for Tunney's chin in the fourth—and missed. Tunney hit him in the Adam's apple. I dropped him against the ropes. And then when I had him in a bad way I crowded the issue still further for my self by stopping to look what punches will hit him next and everything I did was all wrong.

"Before I could make in my mind Tunney was on top of me and the fight was gone.

"THE farther the fight went the worse I got. I couldn't do anything right in the first round and I did everything worse as the fight went along. I never found any co-ordination of eye, mind and muscle

"You and your partner figured to beat those two fellows you played at bridge tonight. You were beaten—and there no more a fix for you fellows except that you didn't have your luck with you and that you couldn't get started. I figured to beat Tunney in Philadelphia—and you know what happened.

"It may be that Tunney is my master at all times under all circumstances. But if I get a good break in luck in Chicago and can fight my fight—well, I think I will prove that any such idea is all wrong."

THE LIFE OF THOMAS A. EDISON

(Authorized by Mr. Edison.)

Text by Arthur J. Palmer
Drawings by Frank Kuchenmeister

With visions of a small fortune, Edison took his vote-recorder model to Washington and demonstrated it before the Chairman of Committees. That gentleman told him it was exactly what they didn't want, because it eliminated delay and filibustering, the very means government representatives used to defeat bad legislation Disappointed, but not disheartened, Edison shouldered his vote-recorder and silently left the room, with the resolution never to invent a thing that was not a necessity to the community at large. Thus the failure of his first invention had a decided influence on the trend of his talent in devising future successes.

After his disappointing experience with the vote-recorder, Edison invented a stock-ticker and started a ticker service in Boston. He had between thirty and forty subscribers and operated from a room over the Gold Exchange. An illustration of a later ticker he invented, "Edison's Universal Printer," appears above

Edison was in debt when he left for New York, where he landed penniless and friendless. Passing a warehouse, he saw a tea-taster inspecting tea. He asked whether he might have a cup, which the kindly man gave him. It was not much of a breakfast, but good fortune was waiting just around the corner.

Jam, Marmalade and Pickle Canning

By MARTHA LEE

TODAY we prefer to cook our preserves in rather small quantities, preferably not over two or three quarts. Instead of adding sugar at the beginning we add it to the fruit when the cooking is partly done

Do not overlook preserves of any kind. Jams keep much better when put up in pint or half-pint, sealed jars rather than in forms of container which are not air tight, sealing in jars also makes it possible to use less than the "pound for pound" proportion of sugar. This is an improvement to some preserves

Here are a few recipes for berry jams that's appropriate for strawberries, raspberries, blackberries, very young gooseberries and currants.

Jam—Pick over and wash the berries. Drain immediately and hull. Measure into an enamel kettle and cook a very few minutes. Add an equal quantity of sugar, also put on kettle remembering that the sugar is much more compact than the fruit, so that the measure is not used for the berries should be only two-thirds to three-fourths full of sugar.

Cook for fifteen minutes and test for consistency by cooling a spoonful quickly on a cold plate. In jams which are exactly right the morsels of fruit are suspended in a clear jelly. Fill into jars or other containers while hot.

If jelly glasses or fancy moulds are used, put a tablespoonful of melted paraffine on top of each container after the jam is cold. A mixture of half-and-half raspberries and currants is liked by many people as the mild flavor of the raspberries mixes delightfully with the acid of the currants

Orange Marmalade—Slice sweet or bitter oranges, whichever you prefer, rind and all, into thin slices with a sharp knife, retaining all the juice. Measure with a cup into a stone crock and for every cupful of the sliced fruit and juice add three cups of cold water. Let stand over night. In the morning transfer to an enamel kettle and bring slowly to a boil.

Return to the crock and let stand for another twenty-four hours. Cook with an equal amount of granulated sugar until it jellies, which will be half an hour or more, according to the intensity of the fire. Seal in glass jars or other containers.

Mustard Pickles—Cut into pieces a cauliflower, a dozen cucumbers, a quart of small green tomatoes, a pint of small onions and a quart of tender string beans. These proportions can be varied at convenience.

Cover with dry salt and let stand overnight. Drain the pickles and cover with a mixture made as follows: Mix two ounces turmeric powder, two ounces dry mustard, one half cup ground ginger, one half ounce ground cloves, one half ounce pepper, tablespoon salt. Moisten these with a little vinegar and work into a smooth paste, heating the remainder of the gallon in the boiling point. Stir in the mixed spices, boil and pour over the vegetables which were packed in the jars after draining off the brine. Seal.

Pickled onions also add piquancy to a meal. Peel small white onions and cover with strong brine made of a cup of salt and a quart of boiling water. Let them remain over night. Make fresh brine and boil the onions in it five minutes. Pack into jars seasoning with peppercorns, a few whole cloves and bits of bay leaf. Fill the jars with boiling vinegar sweetened slightly to modify the sharpness

And that's all for today, but to be "continued in our next."

MARTHA LEE.

Reed on Sea Bathing and the Sun

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D.,
Former President of the American Medical Association.

YOU will doubtless have had several "sun baths," whether desired or not, by the time this article meets your eye. You may even have gone to the seashore, not only to battle with the surf, but to loll on the beach in the sunshine with the greater part of your body exposed to its rays. These experiences are sources of great delight, and are most generally health-giving in their effects. But they have limitations that should be kept in mind, or their desirable results may be destroyed and positive damage result.

It is for these reasons that sunlight must be used with discretion, for it must not be allowed to run riot. For instance, its advocates are apt to make exaggerated claims for it which cannot be supported, and which cause much disappointment to people who believe and act on them. It is of especial value in surgical tuberculosis, and lengthy sun treatment will undoubtedly aid and quicken the cure, but to say that the sun will cure all forms of surgical tuberculosis is to make a wholly unwarranted and harmful statement. The only way in which we can use it wisely is to learn about what it actually does

Here are one or two points brought forward by Sir Henry Gauvain (practitioner), which it is well that every one should know.

People differ very widely in their individual response to the sun bath, and the best results are only gotten by paying attention to this response. The ordinary healthy person can react favorably to large and increasing doses of sunlight; the weakly can only tolerate slight exposures.

One important reaction, and one that serves as a rough guide, is the bronzing of the skin after exposure. The very first effect after a sunbath is a redness; this occurs in every one and is caused by the shorter waved and ultra-violet rays. A person who strives in the sun soon gets blistered and his skin peels off. He gets, in fact, sunburned. This shows that the dose has been too great, and if the sunbath is to be of any real use it should not be prolonged up to the burning stage.

The later reaction is the formation of coloring matter in the skin, or "tanning." It is the result of the longer waved ultra-violet rays and this tanning, or pigmentation as the doctors call it, varies very much in different subjects. This means that it depends on the individual power of response. When the skin is well pigmented the bather can tolerate long exposures without any injury to the skin. Also, a good pigmentation generally, though not always, means a good result.

Ice an Aid to Beauty

By Maria Jeritza
Prima Donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company and One of the Most Beautiful Women of the Day

MORE than one woman who plans her beauty regime intelligently, keeps her cold cream, skin tonic and skin food in a separate compartment of her icebox. I know one lovely woman, who has had a tiny icebox installed in her dressing-room for the express purpose of keeping ice near at hand as a beauty aid.

Nearly all creams, lotions and tonics keep longer on ice. An astringent acts more powerfully when it is icy cold, for cold is astringent. Then, too, it is convenient to be able to chip off a piece of ice about an inch square at any time, to rub over over the skin.

Iced drinks are not advisable because ice is chilling in the stomach But what is more refreshing than a glass of fresh water from a corked bottle kept on the ice.

Many a woman renowned for her beauty irons her face with a lump of ice as the last touch to her toilette. The ice can be applied either direct to the skin, or through a fine cotton white linen cloth. If you prefer, pour a few drops of your favorite skin tonic over the ice before rubbing it over your face, neck and arms. This makes an excellent powder case.

Not all complexions can stand this direct application of ice. A skin inclined to red blotches, does not react well to ice. A very thin, delicate skin may grow irritated from the shock of the ice and tiny broken veins may appear just beneath the surface. In case your skin indicates in this way that it is not thick enough and sturdy enough to stand direct ice application, bathe it instead in iced water, or add a small lump of ice to the bowlful of fresh cold water softened with lemon juice in which you bathe your face.

Are you trying to avoid or overcome that blemish of beauty, a double chin? Nowadays, women realize that the pendulent chin is caused by sagging cheek and chin muscles, rather than superfluous fat. It tightens and tightens these muscles and a lump of ice against them as long as the pressure is endurable.

Ice cream ranks high among delicious, nourishing foods. You can hardly eat too much of it. Half a cantaloupe with a small mountain of ice cream makes a delicious light luncheon for hot weather, as does, also, a large plate of ice cream garnished with raspberries or any other of the Summer berries.

In case you are on a reducing diet, choose delicious water-ices for your dessert in hot weather.

Household Hints

When washing linoleum avoid the use of soda, strong cleaning powder or scouring soap, as these tend to remove the oil and break up the compressed cork substance of which linoleum consists.

Vegetable marrow may be cut in pieces, steamed for a short time, and then dipped in egg and breadcrumbs and fried.

One of the greatest beautifiers is a glass of water, to which the juice of a lemon has been added, taken three or four times daily.

New recipe a champion traveller

Has it reached your town?

HERE'S a recipe so delicious, yet so practical and economical, that it has covered the country in no time—passing from woman to woman. Try it! You'll agree that it was a clever housewife who first thought of using Standard Sweetened Condensed Milk for mayonnaise. It makes a rich, creamy dressing, marvelously smooth. It economizes on salad oil—saves time in the making—and absolutely prevents curdling or separating.

Condensed Milk Mayonnaise

1 egg yolk
⅓ cup Standard Sweetened Condensed Milk
½ teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup vinegar
½ cup salad oil
Few grains cayenne

Beat the egg with a Dover egg-beater and add the other ingredients in the order listed, beating each in thoroughly before adding another.

Standard Sweetened Condensed Milk is a remarkably rich, smooth blend of full-cream country milk and finest sugar. Super-rich—because most of the water has been removed. Super-sweet—because the sugar is blended in by a method you can't equal at home. It is the best form of milk to use in all dishes that require both milk and sugar. Watch this space for other splendid recipes . . . And be sure to try Standard in your coffee, too. It creams-and-sugars deliciously—at one-half the cost of cream and sugar! . . . Get it from your grocer today! Remember—it keeps without ice!

NO woman can afford to miss these magazine pages. Here you will find household information of great value, a wonderful article by an eminent physician, important advice on matters of etiquette by a woman who knows and fashion hints fresh from Paris.

The Catspaw

By ROBERT TERRY SHANNON
Author of "THE TAXI DANCER"

A Story of Sylvia Bryant, Stenographer, Among the Money Crowd

Joyce Ackerman, society woman and wife of Vance Ackerman, rich broker, appeals to a mutual friend, Alexander Ladd, a successful lawyer, to help her in her battle with Margot Liggett, who has won her husband's affections. Ladd persuades Mrs. Ackerman to install Sylvia Bryant, his stenographer, in her home as her social secretary. Ackerman admires Sylvia's beauty and charm, and Stuart Gifford, his cousin, falls in love with her. He makes light of marriage and she refuses to let him kiss her. Mrs. Ackerman confesses to Sylvia that she hoped her presence would aid in keeping her husband away from Margot. Sylvia overhears Margot's divorced husband threaten to kill Ackerman who defies him and says he is going out with Margot that very night. To avert a tragedy Sylvia begs him to take her to dinner. She tells Mrs. Ackerman what she is doing. Ackerman takes her to a revue.

CHAPTER 28

DEAD! Vance Ackerman was dead . . .

Sylvia closed her eyes as her mind tried to comprehend the fact that the personality she had come to know so well, that she had contacted so often, was obliterated, extinguished, forever . . .

"It's incredible," she said in a whisper.

Stuart Gifford slumped in the chair across the table from her and eyed her with a selfish hostility.

"I don't get this at all," he said. "I'm bowled over, myself. My mind simply won't soak it up. Look here, Sylvia. I want you to start right in at the beginning and tell me everything that happened tonight."

Slowly—methodically—Sylvia complied. Step by step she took him from the Ackerman home to the theatre, from the theatre to Colonel Bailey's. As nearly as she could remember she described the conversation the three of them had in the proprietor's luxurious office while they ate a mid-night supper and sipped champagne. She told of Liggett's call of inquiry about Margot and Vance Ackerman; of Ackerman's subsequent decision to go straight home because of a headache.

"It looks like Liggett did it," Gifford said, thoughtfully. "Might be hard to prove it, though. Another thing—how did you happen to be out with Ackerman tonight?"

"I asked him to take me."

Gifford looked at her in blank surprise. "You asked him—why?"

"Because he had a date with Mrs. Liggett and I heard Mr. Liggett call him up over the phone and threaten to kill him if he went out with her any more. I wanted him to take me out so he wouldn't be with Mrs. Liggett. I didn't want him to get into trouble. And I told Mrs. Ackerman all about it."

In silence Gifford puffed a cigarette. Then:

"I see. When Liggett called Bailey's and found that Margot and Vance both there, he assumed they were together. When you came out with Vance, he might have thought you were Margot—she wears a cape very much like the one you have on now. It's a pretty clear case."

"I suppose we had better go straight to the police and tell them," Sylvia suggested.

"Please—don't include me in any of that," Gifford told her. "I've told you I want to be kept out of it. After all, I've got to protect my own name. If just as soon as one ever knew that I met you down here Of course Joyce knows; but I can tell her to keep still about that. I don't want to figure in the publicity at all. You'll do that for me, won't you Sylvia—you'll keep my name out of it?"

She looked at him, her feeling of friendship slowly crumbling. Not a word of concern over Ackerman's death . . . not a single, spontaneous throb of affection for Joyce herself. In fair weather Stuart Gifford had been an adorable companion, a charming suitor. But now—in a crisis—he curled up at the edges.

Under her scrutiny he flushed a little. "Oh, I'll do what I can for you, of course," he said. "I don't know exactly what to tell you. Why not get hold of Alexander Ladd? Here—here's a nickel. Go up to that telephone and call his apartment."

He gave Sylvia the number and her heart leaden, she obeyed him. A masculine voice, deferential, as he announced her name, informed her that Mr. Ladd had been called, suddenly to the home of Vance Ackerman.

When she hung up the receiver Gifford, at her elbow, told her to go home. "I'll get Ladd and meet you there. Anne Sylvia obeyed After a delay Alexander Ladd's voice, crisp and authoritative, reached her over the wire.

"This is Sylvia Bryant . . ."

"I have been waiting for you to show up," he said, with a vigor tinged with intensity. "Where are you now?"

"I'm in the Back Bay."

"Were you with Vance Ackerman when he was stabbed?"

"Yes."

"Who did it?"

"I don't know."

"Are you quite safe yourself?"

"Yes."

"It's a terrible situation and things are very much upset here. I've sent for a couple of women friends of Joyce's to be with her. Do you know where I live?"

"Yes; the address is in the telephone book."

"Right. Now listen, carefully. Get in a cab and go to my apartment. Ring the bell and tell my man that I sent you there to wait for me. I'll be back within a half hour. Meanwhile, keep your mouth shut tight! I want to talk to you first of all. Are you sure you're all right?"

"I think—I think so," her voice faltered.

"Well, get yourself together," he said authoritatively. "There's nothing you can do here at the house. Everything is being attended to. And don't worry any more than you can help."

Stuart Gifford looked at her, his face sickly with excitement.

"I'm going to Mr. Ladd's apartment to wait for him there," she said.

"Don't mention my name to him," he said with dry lips. "I'd rather not be mixed up in it at all. You do me that little favor, girl, and I'll make you a nice present. You know how it is with a young man in business—you understand, don't you?"

Sylvia understood, perfectly.

Who Is the Average Girl? -:- -:- By Beatrice Fairfax

MEN ACCUSE GIRLS OF GOLD-DIGGING

BUT CUPID OFTEN HOVERS IN THE BALCONY

By Beatrice Fairfax,
Is Authority on the Problems of Love and Marriage.

FROM letters I get it would seem that the average modern young man and average modern girl do not entirely understand each other, but would like to come to a clearer, better understanding.

Girls accuse modern men of questionable motives in paying supposedly courteous attentions. Young men also have their grievances.

One girl writes:

"I would like to say a few words in reply to "AVERAGE MAN," who wrote you recently that he believes ninety-nine per cent. of the girls are gold diggers. I think not more than fifty per cent. of girls are gold diggers. And even of this percentage, not by any means all are to blame.

"Among a large circle of young ladies of my acquaintance there are perhaps one or two who would make a young man spend an exorbitant sum for one evening's pleasure. But the average girl of my acquaintance likes to go out with a respectable, intelligent young man, and, if he appeals to her, she will even go to a 25-cent movie with him and be happy.

"Surely something is wrong with Average Man. Perhaps he was in love with some girl who just played with him and threw him aside after he spent a great deal of money for her pleasure. I admit there are such girls, but, fortunately, they are only a very small percentage.

"Don't you think that in many cases the ways and actions of gold diggers are the result of the attitude of modern young men? If they spend a dollar on a girl, they expect so much in return. Then when that same girl meets a man who perhaps is the right sort and had good intentions, she does not know that and decides that since he is going to demand a great deal, she will get all she can out of him.

"Viola naturally feel that since men are not serious and just want to have a good time, they may as well have good times, too."

Modern young people have little help from parents and chaperone in distinguishing between the worthless and the worthwhile in friendship and love. How natural that misunderstanding should arise.

A girl accepts the attentions of a comparatively new acquaintance. He demands petting as the reward for his expenditure of money. Judging the next man she meets by this disappointing experience, she avenges herself by making her new admirer spend more money than he can afford.

The second young man, not understanding the motive of her action, decides that she is a gold digger, hence all girls are gold-diggers. So the fog of misunderstanding thickens

'Where's Emily?'; Aunt Judy Gives a New Theory Regarding Case

too said abruptly. "You know there's to be an inquest."

"How did you know it?" cried Nell, glad to hear more about it.

"Lawlor has just been to see me, and he says that what he learned here, about the fur, you know, makes it advisable. He wanted to see Polly's fur, and I showed it to him. They're almost exactly alike. Well, I hope you folks don't mind. For my part, I'm rather glad to have an inquest, it may help to bring Emily in!"

"How?" said Rodney.

"I don't know, but isn't there a chance of bringing out some evidence?"

"You hold to the motor bandit theory?"

"I didn't. I was sure that poor Polly took her own life, for I know there were times when that notion appealed to her. But after the fur story, I have vague ideas of bandits or hold-up men, who were attracted by Emily's necklace, and when they tried to grab it, Polly tried to help Emily with the result that they pushed Polly over the rail, and took Emily off."

"If why abduct her, if they had the loot?"

"I don't know. Gibby, my mind goes round in circles. I can't theorize the thing at all. That's why I sort of hoped an inquest might bring out some clue, some otherwise unavailable bit of evidence that might help toward finding Emily."

"I'm having the funeral on Saturday, and on Sunday I'm going off for a while. I can't stand the lonely house, it drives me crazy."

"Where you going?"

"Haven't a notion. I'll take my car, I think, go down to New York, and then see what I want to do. Perhaps go abroad, though I hardly think so. I'll let your know where I am—if you care."

"I say, Jim," Sayre said to him, "I'm going to get a good detective to bring Emily back to me."

"Good work" Then with a queer little crooked smile, he added "I wish the detective could bring back my Polly."

"I wish so, too," said Rodney, solemnly. "Do you know any superior detective?"

"The best one I ever heard of—I don't really know any—is Fleming Stone. They say he's the greatest . . ."

"I've heard of him as top of the heap, too," said Gibby. "But he's almost impossible to get and very expensive."

"I don't mind any expense," Sayre assured him, "and I have some influential friends who could get him for me, I think."

Pennington went off home, and after a short farther talk the girls went off to bed. Soon, Lamb and Gibby went to their rooms, too, but Rodney Sayre camped on the sofa for the few hours left of the night.

Next morning the others having also caught a few hours sleep felt refreshed for whatever the new day might bring forth.

Aunt Judy appeared, sad and tearful-eyed but bravely trying to keep up as well as the rest. Pete realized that after Rodney, she was the one Emily loved best of them all, and they were especially kind and gentle with her.

The announcement of the inquest startled her.

"What for?" she cried, and they told her about the fur.

Aunt Judy grew very thoughtful Her black eyes ceased to snap and her white, bobbed hair ceased to shake its curls

She looked about at the young people, just finishing breakfast.

"Which of you lads has the most sense?" she demanded.

"I have," answered Sayre, "you know it."

"You won't do." She stared hard at G oby and Lamb and decided on the former

"Come with me," she beckoned to him, and took him to a small sitting room of her own

"Pete," she began, after she had closed the door, "it's very bad. Do you see how things are going?"

"In what respect?" he asked, a little bewildered, and also disturbed at her serious air.

"You all told me everything there was to tell about the fur, didn't you?"

"Yes, everything. You know all we know."

"I know more than you know At least, I see through it as you do not. You are all too young, I suppose, to realize it, but that Lawlor man means very bad business, very bad, indeed."

"Come, Aunt Judy," Pete was permitted the name, "tell me just what you mean"

"Tells They were to have no inquest They were to bury Pauline as having died accidentally. Along comes that fur piece, and turns out to be Emily's. As soon as they learn about it, they call an inquest. Now do you see"

"Go on," said Pete, unsteadily "I will go on. They can't explain Emily's presence on the bridge, nor her absence afterward And they think—they think that Emily pushed Polly over, and her fur fell over, and then Emily ran away."

"Aunt Judy, you're crazy."

"I hope to goodness I am!"

Don't scrub to get a whiter wash

Clothes last longer, keep their colors better, when you use Rinso.

WHY rub, scrub and boil the life out of clothes when they can be soaked so much whiter?

All you need to do is use Rinso instead of ordinary soap. Even in hard water it gives thick, creamy suds that loosen dirt and stains. And they float off by themselves in the rinsing!

You don't need a washboard. You don't need to ruin your hands by scrubbing. Rinso itself does all the work—and gets clothes whiter.

So safe that the makers of 30 leading washing machines urge its use. Get it from your grocer and follow the easy directions on the package.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Embarrassing Moments Used
Embarrassing Moments Building,
Asst. Embarrassing Moments Editors

I had proposed to my sweetie and had been accepted, so I sat off one afternoon in quest of a wedding ring. I walked into one of the bigger and better jewelry stores and looked at several. I bit into quite a few to see if they were good or not and finally decided I could do better at a less expensive store. How it happened I never knew, but it seems as though one of the rings I had tested became stuck to my bridgework; however, I got it off to the front door I had to press violently and in this way the ring was dislodged and it hit the doorman straight between the eyes. Embarrassed? I never saw so many people around a patrol wagon in my life.

MAURINE SICK ABED

Ella Wheeler Wilcox Mending Well as a Result—Physicians Baffled, Sparns Osteopath

Yesterday we digressed long enough to point out something of other. Let us hasten back to the narrative. We left Maurine dizzy at the altar—all hope gone. Helen Lever or Tevere was now Mrs. Vivian Dangerfield and those who didn't like it could lump it.

Congratulations, kisses, tears and smiles, goodbyes, were given. Mrs. Vivian, handsome and noble in his Prince Albert coat and blond, damp curls, perspired impatiently and joked and jested one and all. When someone pinned a "Please Kick Me" sign on his coat, the wedding guests filled past and a jolly good time was had, we can assure you.

But Maurine, wilted by the catastrophe of losing her handsome lover and true friend, spent sleepless nights, which—Brought on a ling'ring illness.

Day by day,
In a strange, apathetic state she lay,
Of mental and of physical despair,
She had no pain, no fever and no chill,
But lay without ambition, strength or will;
Physicians came and shook their heads and sighed;
And to their score of questions she replied,
With but one languid answer, o'er and o'er:
"I am so weary—weary—nothing more!"

Maurine might have tried an autopsy—but she didn't have the ambition. She was tuckered out, as they say in the provinces. Oh, well—

DON'T REST ON PAST LAURELS IN MODERN LIFE

HAVE you ever set yourself a far-away goal and later reached it?

Then, were you so contented that you relaxed in your efforts because you thought you were entitled to a breathing spell?

And what happened?

You were so satisfied that you dropped right out, didn't you?

Perhaps you set the goal by such easy stages that you were too slow in accomplishment.

But you didn't like sustained effort.

Self-denial and prolonged concentration don't suit you.

You try to plan your tasks to avoid a long pull.

Yet you must make a long pull and a strong pull and would reach that far-away goal and keep it.

If you are alert, when you reach the end of your present aim you will find something more desirable ahead and you can use that far-away goal as a stepping stone to greater success.

While there is life there is no opportunity to sit back on past laurels.

Don't set your pace so fast that you cannot keep up with it. Let your joy of accomplishment project you to greater things.

DO YOU KNOW THAT----

Models of insects which may carry disease, such as flies and mosquitoes, each enlarged to the size of a small dog, have been placed in the Natural History Museum, South Kensington.

The great majority of headaches are due to eye-strain, in very many cases the sufferers are women who object to glasses because they regard them as unbecoming or a sign of age.

Out of the fifty-five principal private estates in Great Britain, at least thirty-five are not for sale, either because their owners do not need the money or because they can't dispose of them?

MEDBURY SAYS---

IN the olden times every city had a public wailing place, but nowadays the women cry at home.

ONE man says his wife weeps so much that he runs the vacuum cleaner by water power.

HE took a snapshot of her the other morning and it looked like a picture of the Roosevelt Dam.

SHE'S an artist at sobbing. She could get tears out of a glass eye.

SORE ITCHING RASH FOLLOWED BERRY-PICKING

Spread rapidly, but was checked at last and quickly healed

Carrolltown, Pa., Aug. 19.—"One day last year after picking berries my hand began to itch very badly. I scratched it but did not bother or pay anything on it. Finally the place became red and sore and began to spread all over my hand. Then I became alarmed and seeing your advertisement I sent for a sample each of your Resinol Soap and Ointment. After using these samples the relief was so great, I purchased two full size cakes of Resinol Soap and two jars of Ointment and continued their use until my hand was finally healed. I can never thank you enough for what your Resinol has done for me, and I hope that all who have skin trouble will try these products."—(Signed) Agnes Frederick, Box 17.

Begin today to use Resinol for Sunburn, Chafing, Insect Bites, etc. Ask your druggist for it.

SHE was crying at a picnic last week and three campers came over and filled their thermos bottles.

THE government wants to send her out to Arizona, they need another oasis on the desert.

SHE even weeps while she's doing her housework. Every bungalow apron is a bawl gown.

IT makes it nice when she cries in her sleep. Her husband doesn't have to get up to fill the hot-water bag.

HE can't understand why she sheds so many tears. He's beginning to think she was born in an aquarium.

SHE weeps every time they have a dispute. She gets about two quarts to the argument.

HE has to put his rubbers on before they fight.

HE never goes out with her in the evening unless he takes a flask. He can't carry her tears loose in his pocket.

AND he has to bring them home to the goldfish.

THEY'RE used to her drops and they'd probably die in city water.

Famous Composers

IN the history of genius one so seldom finds it flourishing in the dwelling places of the rich, securely guarded against the ever-howling wolf, that we breathe a sigh of relief when we find one of her sons who was not handicapped by poverty.

Such a one was Giacomo Meyerbeer. His father was a banker, and his mother, Amalie Wulf, was a woman of high intellectual charm and beauty. Meyerbeer's birth date is generally accepted as September 5, 1791, although some biographers place it in 1794.

When he was seven years of age, he was placed under the instruction of the famous Lauska, and later studied with Clementi. He gave his first concert when seven years old, and at the age of nine was pronounced the best pianist in Berlin.

Under the advice of Salieri, he determined to go to Italy to study vocalization. Here he was so fascinated by the style of Rossini that he produced a succession of Italian operas. He was finally persuaded to follow his own inclinations, and in 1826 he went to Paris. Recalled to Berlin by the death of his father, for three years he was practically out of the public eye, but on his return he produced the opera of "Robert the Devil" and the "The Huguenots."

After the production of these two operas, he spent many years in the preparation of his great operas, "The Prophet" and "L'Africain."

Meyerbeer gave a great deal of his time to the production of the works of others. He personally produced Wagner's "Rienzi," and it is more than probable that but for Meyerbeer, Wagner would have had a difficult time in procuring a hearing in Berlin.

His genius has been severely criticised by many of his contemporaries, but the fact remains that as long as passionate intensity and dramatic power are regarded as indispensable to operatic and dramatic compositions, Meyerbeer's name will be remembered and loved.

His health began to fail in 1849, but his death did not occur until May 2, 1863.

A Vogue for Violet is daily becoming more pronounced. The conventional violet shades are sponsored for daytime apparel and a blue-violet for evening wear. In chiffon, or in crepe satin the latter gowns are developed, while the daytime dresses are of the sports variety and are of novelty, rayon-striped, jersey or flat crepe.

Persistently Popular—Bows, in new forms and positions are as popular on the advance Fall frocks as they have been on the Spring and Summer ones. Stiff tailored bows that finish off V collars, soft, fluffy ones that soften the harshness at the back of a bare neckline, and long narrow ones that are gracefully posed on one shoulder add greatly to the charm and chic of new dresses.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

LOVE is the benzoate of soda in which a woman's beauty and a man's youth is preserved.

• • •

A man in love makes the foolish mistake of telling a lot of unnecessary lies; but a woman in love makes the fatal mistake of telling a lot of unnecessary truths.

• • •

The great vital problem of a modern girl's life is how to get a man to stand STILL long enough for her to stage a wed-ding.

Every man needs a wife, if only as a life-preserver at which he can snatch, when he finds himself getting into deep water or going down for the third time in a Summer flirtation.

• • •

The zero hour of a college graduate's life is that in which he finds himself working for a man who uses his negatives, wears a spotlight in his necktie and thinks that a Greek-letter society is a waiters' union.

• • •

If you can't be thankful for that which you have received in the lottery of marriage, you can nearly always look around at other women's husbands and be thankful for what you have escaped.

• • •

PIMPLES WERE VERY PAINFUL
On Face. Hard, Large and Red. Cuticura Heals.
"For weeks I suffered with pimples that broke out on my face. They were hard, large and red, and festered and scaled over. The pimples itched very much and when I scratched them it caused eruptions. A rash broke out on my hands and when I put them in water they itched and were very painful.
"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. After using it I discovered that the pimples were disappearing so purchased more, which healed me." (Signed) Miss Margaret Duhoke, 99 South St., Chicopee, Mass., Jan. 5, 1927.

EXPECT MELON ON INDIANA STANDARD OIL

Wall Street is looking for a stock dividend by Standard Oil of Indiana after stockholders take action Sept. 9 on a proposed increase of 25 per cent. in its stock. Details of the company's plans to absorb all or part of the minority stock of Pan American Eastern Petroleum will not be known until this meeting. After this absorption, the opinion prevails sufficient stock will be left to warrant the melon. Previously when Standard of Indiana has increased its capital, a stock dividend has followed.

WHEAT REACTS AFTER FRACTIONAL UPTURN

NATIONAL POLICIES OF THE HEARST NEWSPAPERS

1. An agreement of English-speaking peoples to preserve ppe among themselves and promote the peace of the world.
2. A constitutional amendment to provide for the election of nited States Senators in numbers proportionate to the population of each State, b no State to have less than two Senators. A reapportionment of Congressional reasentation immediately after every census, or in case of the failure of Congress so to act, to make the apportionment automatic at the end of the first Congressional session, the proportion of population for each representative in each case to be that of the existing Congress.
3. A separate Department of the Army, of the Navy and of the Air Forces, all united under a Secretary of National Defense.
4. Federal action to the limit of Federal Government powers to abolish illiteracy among the people of the United States, and the creation of a Secretary of Education.
5. Necessary measures to secure the election of Congress in November and its installation on the 1st of January following, and the inauguration of a President on the 1st of January immediately following his election in November.

"Framed"

By Whom? What For?

We wonder if those who talk so loosely of "judicial murder" in connection with the recent executions, who speak of "collusion" between the Federal and the State authorities and who say that Sacco and Vanzetti were "framed," understand clearly the import of their words.

Many of them being persons of education, we suppose THEY do, but it is almost unbelievable.

Why should anyone have desired the lives of these two men, except as a forfeiture to the State for the killing of Parmenter and Berardelli?

If they WERE "framed," who framed them?

They had not merely a "day," but SEVEN YEARS, in the courts.

They appeared first before the COMMITTING MAGISTRATE, who held them for the GRAND JURY, which returned the indictment upon which they were tried before the PETIT JURY, which found them guilty "beyond a reasonable doubt."

Following the conclusion of the trial and within recent months their cause in one form or another was brought to the attention of, or argued before, the following members of the judiciary:

Superior Court—Chief Justice Walter Perley Hall, Judges Thayer, Broadhurst and Sisk.

Supreme Judicial Court—Justices Sanderson, Braley, Carroll, Wait and Pierce.

United States District Court—Judge James M. Morton, Jr.

United States Circuit Court—Judge George W. Anderson.

United States Supreme Court—Justices Oliver Wendell Holmes, Louis D. Brandeis and Harlan Fiske Stone.

ADD the names of former Judge Robert Grant, President Lowell of Harvard and President Stratton of the Institute of Technology, who reviewed the evidence and re-examined the witnesses as an Advisory Committee brought together by the Governor.

Add the Governor himself, who we may be sure would have halted the execution if he were not completely satisfied that the condemned (1) had received a fair trial and (2) were guilty "beyond a reasonable doubt."

Finally, add the name of the Attorney-General of the United States, who on at least two occasions assured the American people that the files of the Department of Justice contain nothing having ANY bearing upon the South Braintree murder or indicating collusion between the men who ran that department in a previous administration and the prosecuting officers of Norfolk County.

Contemplating the great number of public servants and distinguished citizens who at one point or another were brought into contact with the case of Sacco and Vanzetti talk of "frame-up" and "judicial murder" can be regarded only as an insult to the intelligence of those to whom it is addressed.

A Nose Constrictor

A Brain Enlarger Would Be Better

A MACHINE TO IMPROVE A LADY'S NOSE.

Miss Lina Cavalieri sang in grand opera, married here and there in an original, interesting way, and was herself very beautiful, but now settled down in Paris and teaches "how to be beautiful" to other women.

In this picture you see a lady who doesn't like the shape of her nose, sitting patiently under Lina Cavalieri's care, while that high-spirited Italian artist makes the nose almost any shape you like.

If your nose is too wide it can be made narrower. If it is too high it can be made lower, if too flat it can be made higher. Sometimes surgery is necessary, cutting skin, bone and bristle. Sometimes this ingenious pressing machine does the work.

We are told that they did things as foolish as this in

WEATHER PROBLEM MAY BE SOLVED

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THEY say the law of supply and demand is operative in inventive circles as well as elsewhere.

In two fields especially invention is needed. Thomas Edison is said to be working almost exclusively on some plan for synthesized rubber.

This is a rubber age, and the extensive use of automobiles has enormously increased the demand. Whoever would invent some way to manufacture a cheap substitute for rubber would not only make a fortune himself, but he would greatly benefit the world. There seems to be no reason why some substance cannot be manufactured that will replace rubber, to a degree.

Chemists have invaded the perfume and flavor field and the dye and coal tar products have given us dyes that are remarkable. It is said by some that flavors and odors can be more successfully manufactured by the chemists than they are by nature. If the chemist will do like work in the field of rubber he will be rewarded.

Another demand is for the control of the weather. Sir Oliver Lodge the other day said that there was nothing in the way of man's controlling the weather. The fog remains the worst enemy to transportation, whether the ocean liner, the railroad train or the airship.

Fog is the sailor's greatest enemy and it is the air man's greatest enemy.

You cannot do much successful navigation unless you are able to see your way. When not only the path but the stars are blotted out and you are compelled to howl along say at one hundred miles an hour in impenetrable obscurity it is dangerous business. Just how man shall overcome fog conditions it is impossible to say, but it is certainly a challenge to the inventive genius of man. Who ever will discover how to change these conditions or to adjust himself to them will lay humanity under an immense obligation.

The meteorological reports are surprisingly accurate. Most people regard the weather man simply as a good guesser. He is not. He bases his predictions upon facts and reasons according to established meteorological laws. Weather predictions have a high average of accuracy.

The conditions on the Atlantic are baffling. Fog banks are common along the Newfoundland coast and the winds on the Atlantic are capricious.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

WHY should I not be glad, although I have not had life's rich and splendid chances, although I have not known great ventures of my own nor shared in rare romances? For few, indeed, are they who see life's facets gay and drink its wine of gladness; the common lot, instead, is to toil, to dread, and mixed with bites, find sadness. But who would not be glad to know that he had had part in all of living? To know he understood his brothers' every mood, who would not feel thanksgiving? The truly thankful bereaft not only for life's best his pleasure voices; but that he shared in all, knows good, bad, great and small, his heart rejoices.

BOSTON DAY BY DAY

TRAFFIC on Devonshire street between Water and Milk streets is bad enough under normal conditions, but at the present time, with a yawning chasm stretching along in front of the Postoffice, it is conducive to much profanity. Although small pipes are being laid, the excavation is comparatively large, and with a narrow street filled with traffic, the effect is chaotic.

Inspector William J. Rooney of the Boston police department would hardly be recognized in a picture of a group of foundry workers taken years and years ago in Warren, Mass., in the days of the old Knowles Steam Pump Works. But William J. drifted in to the Boston police force, where he is one of the department's best known members. A brother, now Captain John Rooney, is also a well known member of the department.

William F. Duncan, well known Summer street salesman and K. C. member, goes those able to master foreign languages some better, for the reason that he can use the deaf and dumb alphabet in an expert manner in three different languages. Fellow fishing enthusiasts have even accused him of using the sign language on brook trout, he used to catch so many. Bill is by no means afflicted, he being a witty speaker, but he just picked up talking with his fingers and put it to use in his business.

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

Success is full of promise till men get to them, as a race track is full of horses before the race begins, but after that it is empty enough. —Beecher.

Individuals pass like shadows, but the commonwealth is fixed and stable. —Burke.

Egypt four thousand years ago. There is every reason to believe and fear that they will do things just as foolish four thousand years hence. But eventually, let us hope and pray with faith and humility, that women will attach more importance to the inside of the brain than to the importance of the outside of the face.

Nothing counts in the long run but the brain. Everybody knows about Madame de Stael, who was so homely that Madame Cavalieri probably would have refused to undertake the job. Napoleon sent her into exile, and when he was told that he ought not to fight against women, he said: "That's not a woman; it's a man."

He was right in one way. Madame de Stael was a very intelligent human being and concentrated on things worth while. Not that she lacked attention. Many gentlemen, as history tells you, were very attentive to her.

There is one thing that women do not realize, which is, that the only man worth while is the man with at least SOME brains. A man with brains looks for a woman with intelligence. He isn't looking for a pink skin and yellow hair. He knows that both can be bought at the drug store.

Everybody today knows Madame de Stael, reads her letters. Who knows the pretty "things" that sat around her at a thousand dinner parties, with all their loveliness, lace and flounces, rose-bud mouths, tiny noses, curly hair?

All their quality was on the outside and they ARE FORGOTTEN.

Madame de Stael's quality was on the inside, and SHE LIVES. Young ladies, take warning.

THREE MINUTE TRIPS

TASTES differ the world over. In China, the stouter the woman, the more beautiful is she considered, while in the United States, the slim, graceful girl is most esteemed. It would be difficult for us to adjust our point of view to the Chinese conception of pulchritude, but it would be even more difficult for us to admire the Sara-dinges, or "duck-lipped" women of the Lake Chad region of Africa.

These women, esteemed great beauties among their people, have lips distended to such an extent that it is impossible for them to chew their food, and as they walk their lips clack together in time to their march.

In her fourth or fifth year, the girl's future husband punches a hole in the centre of her upper and lower lip. Through these holes he inserts a thick straw or a reed. When the wound has healed, a wooden peg about the size of a pencil is substituted for the reed. About three months later, larger pegs are inserted. And this keeps on until the pegs become too heavy, then flat, hollow, wooden discs are used. To give you an idea of the appearance of this, at sixteen, a girl wears a disc five inches wide in the upper lip, and three inches in the lower. At twenty-five, her lips may contain discs respectively seven and five inches wide. But now, instead of sticking out like a bird's bill, they drop down over the chin and neck. Indeed, some women at middle-age have attained the supreme distinction of wearing a twelve-inch disc.

Of course it is impossible for these women to thoroughly chew their food, so their diet consists mainly of liquid and semi-liquid food. When eating, it is necessary for them to hold up their lower lip in order to guide their food into the throat. However, there is one advantage, for the distended, hollowed-out lower lip can hold a large amount of liquid
